Bank rates hit 13% record

Times News Services

Moving quickly on the heels of Friday's Bank of Canada lending rate increase, Canadian chartered banks today set prime lending rates at an all-time high of 13 per cent.

The Royal Bank of Canada was first to make the jump from 12½ per cent, effective immediately and the other banks were quick to follow suit.

The chartered banks also announced increases of 0.25 per cent to 10.25 per cent on true non-chequing savings accounts retroactive to Sept. 1. The banks will add another 0.5 per cent to 10.50 per cent Oct. 1.

Prime is the rate which banks charge their blue-chip corporate borrowers. It is normally kept three-quarters of one per cent above the central bank rate, which went up to 12.25 per cent at the start of business today.

The U.S. base lending rate moved up to to 13 per cent from 12¾ per cent, effective immediately. The rate is the one at which the bank lends U.S. funds in Canada.

The Royal Bank of Canada also announced an increase in mortgage rates, up one-half of one per cent from an increase last Friday.

Effective immediately, three-and-five-year regular mortgages go up to 12¾ per cent for conventional and to 12½ per cent for NHA, while closed mortgages go up to 13¼ per cent for conventional and 13 per cent for NHA.

Closed mortgages are those which allow the borrower to speed up payments.

The president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce said today long-term borrowers will be hardest hit by the current round of interest rate rises.

Sam Hughes said the short-term borrower has a better break because his borrowing rate will come down when interest rates do.

"It's an advantage he's got over the long-term borrower," Hughes said. "A lot of people are obviously looking at the short-term market."

Interest rates will keep rising until the United States begins controlling inflation, he added.

The executive vice-president of the Conseil du Patronat du Quebec, the province's federation of employer associations, echoed Hughes' last remark when he said higher interest rates can always be passed on to the consumer.

"It is not one-half of one per cent which will keep down investment," Dufour said. "There is a certain

Jobless funds scheme simmers

TORONTO (CP) — The possibility of further reductions in Canada's unemployment insurance program has drawn condemnation from labor and the New Democratic Party and praise from business leaders.

Ed Broadbent, federal NDP leader, said Saturday the Progressive Conservative government's study is "dangerous in its implications."

In a story Saturday, The Star said the Conservative government is reviewing ways of cutting unemployment insurance benefits, particularly to seasonal workers, people who quit their jobs or are fired and those out of work due to sickness or pregnancy.

The newspaper also said the federal government is looking at the possibility of giving unemployed people bare subsistance and is studying whether the earnings of other family members should be taken into consideration in determining the amount.

Broadbent said the emphasis should be on job creation, citing a recent report by the Conference Board in Canada, which indicated that next year only 10,000 new jobs will be created in the country.

"That's not enough for one of our large cities let alone for the country," he said.

"The answer is to start a job creation program to get people off unemployment insurance, not to reduce benefits," Pilkey said.

However, Sam Hughes, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said changes are necessary because his organization has long felt that the present system of unemployment insurance discourages people from working.

Whitecaps' John Craven lets rejoicing fans touch trophy during victory parade

Whitecaps fever reigns

VANCOUVER (CP) — They threw confetti and waved banners, sang songs and screamed over and over again what everyone within earshot already knew — the Vancouver Whitecaps are number one.

Children climbed on their fathers' shoulders to get a better look. Teenage girls screamed and enthusiasm ran roughshod over police attempts at crowd control.

And the Whitecaps loved every minute of it as tens of thousands of people jammed downtown streets Sunday to cheer Vancouver's first major professional championship team since the British Columbia Lions won the Grey Cup in 1964.

"I expected a reception, but this is beyond my wildest dreams," said Vancouver native Bob Lenarduzzi after he and his team-mates, swilling beer and champagne in the backs of pickup trucks, had taken more than an hour to inch their way over a three-kilometre parade route.

"Even if you won the (English) Cup final," said goalie Phil Parkes, "there'd be nothing like this."

The Whitecap wave, which started as a ripple six seasons ago when the club joined the league, hit tidal wave proportions with Sunday's welcome.

The hometown enthusiasm supplied what was lacking Saturday when the Whitecaps beat Tampa Bay Rowdies 2-1 before a mostly hostile Soccer Bowl crowd in East Rutherford, N.J., just outside New York.

The crowd, most of them New York Cosmos fans, were still bitter about the Whitecaps win over the Cosmos in the National Conference final a week before. But despite the boos, the Whitecap wave rolled on.

Despite police warnings to go downtown instead, about 1,500 people showed up at the airport. The crowd, ignoring normal airport procedure, pushed past barriers and climbed onto luggage carousels, pressing against the door through which the team was to enter. When defender Buzz Parsons finally came into view with the Soccer Bowl trophy held over his head, the day's chaotic tone was set.

People stood in knots along the 12-km route into the city, waving as the Whitecap bus, escorted by police on motorcycles, sped by with the trophy displayed in its window. Crowd estimates ranged to 60,000.

After the parade, police escorted the team onto a stage at Robson Square. The cheers of the crowd drowned out most of the speech attempts, but it didn't really matter. What Carl Valentine tried to tell them was all they wanted to hear anyway.

"You are the number one fans," he shouted, "and we are the number one team."

U.K. industry hit by strikes

LONDON (Reuter) — A wave of strikes shut down much of British industry today, forced the closure of Manchester Airport and paralysed a key Royal Navy base.

More than a million engineering workers staged a work stoppage over a pay claim, closing industrial plants throughout the country in their second official two-day stoppage this month.

Manchester Airport, the most important in industrial northwest England, was forced to close because of a strike by 34 fire officers in support of a pay claim.

Viets breaking refugee vow?

HONG KONG (UPI) — A boat crammed with 651 refugees arrived in Hong Kong tonight, providing dramatic evidence that Hanoi has failed to halt the exodus of the boat people.

The latest arrivals first touched land in the nearby Portugese territory of Macao, but were towed back to sea by marine police who pointed them in the direction of Hong Kong.

Authorities in the British crown colony said the refugees would not be allowed to land until an investigation into the circumstances of their leaving Vietnam was made.

Earlier today, a 60-foot motorized junk carrying 289 Vietnamese arrived in Hong Kong harbor, bringing the day's refugee total to 940.

Despite Hanoi's pledge at the Geneva conference in July that it would "turn off the tap" on the exodus of refugees, an increasing number of Vietnamese have been rescued at sea or arrived safely in Southeast Asian ports in recent days.

In Hong Kong alone, 2,052 refugees have arrived this month — 1,699 of them in the past week. Officials said more than 67,000 Vietnamese now were being cared for in Hong Kong's crowded refugees camps.

Vancouver Whitecaps, playing before a crowd of more than 50,000 in New York's Giants Stadium, defeated Tampa Bay Rowdies 2-1 Saturday to claim the North American Soccer League title. Story on page 12.

A few hours later, it was Victoria Shamrocks' turn. The Irish nipped Peterborough Red Oaks 13-12 on rookie Jim Boyd's goal with 10 seconds remaining to bring the Mann Cup, emblematic of the Canadian senior lacrosse championship, to Victoria for the first time in 22 years. Page 12.

And a third championship came to B.C. when the provincial under-16 side, made up of players from Vancouver and Victoria districts, won the Western Canadian youth crown at Burnaby. Page 12.

Muzorewa, Mugabe face-to-face in U.K.

LONDON (AP) — British Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington formally opened the Zimbabwe Rhodesia peace talks today, insisting the warring parties reach agreement on a new constitution for the African territory before deciding who will control the army.

The talks opened on schedule despite last-minute objections by one faction of the black nationalist guerrillas to being seated opposite the war-torn territory's first black prime minister, Bishop Abel Muzorewa, and leaders from the previous white minority government.

After the talks began behind closed doors at Lancaster House, a British foreign office spokesman said the opposing delegates sat down as Britain arranged — facing each other.

"The constitution is the fundamental problem to which we must address ourselves," Carrington told the two sides, whose main preoccupation is who will control the national security forces after any internationally acceptable agreement.

Carrington said progress toward agreement on political issues would mean "progress toward removing the causes of the war."

Just before the talks began, guerrilla chief Robert Mugabe urged Britain to set up a transition administration in Zimbabwe Rhodesia giving a "predominant" role to the guerrillas, but including Britain and representatives of Muzorewa's black-dominated administration.

The Mozambique-based forced of Mugabe and the Zambia-based forces of Joshua Nkomo have been fighting seven years for control of the territory. The two men are co-leaders of the Patriotic Front guerrilla alliance.

Mugabe told a BBC interviewer that the communist-armed guerrilla forces should form the "core" of the new army. But unlike many of his top aides and Nkomo himself who often demand the total dismantling of the country's white-led army and air force, Mugabe said: "We do agree to include desirable elements from the other side."

He would not elaborate. The current Rhodesian regular army is 80 per cent black and regarded as one of the most efficient in Africa.

Mugabe described Muzorewa, whom he regards simply as a black front with power retained by whites, as on the "verge of defeat."

U.S. envoy to Canada named

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Carter today announced he has nominated Kenneth Curtis, former governor of Maine, to be the new U.S. ambassador to Canada.

Curtis, whose nomination must be approved by the Senate, would replace Ambassador Thomas Enders.

The Senate foreign relations committee is expected to arrange a confirmation hearing soon. Enders is likely to be reassigned to a European post.

Curtis, 48, a Carter confidant who returned to private law practice in 1978 after a stormy year as chairman of the Democratic party, said earlier this year that if he was appointed ambassador to Canada, he expected to try to learn French.

Sasquatch in Asia?

MOSCOW (AP) — Amateur mountain climbers in Soviet Central Asia discovered the clear footprints of what they said are giant human-like creatures similar to the Sasquatch, the fabled creature of the North American west coast, a Soviet youth newspaper reports.

A special correspondent for the newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda, accompanying an expedition during August in the Gissar Mountains in Tadzhikistan province, wrote two weekend articles in which he described finding the prints of two barefoot creatures near the group's campsite.

"I clearly saw four traces of bare feet," reporter Igor Burtsev said. "Two were heading in the direction of the camp, two away from it. The length of the pace was 120 centimetres, twice as long as the average human pace."

Six days later, Burtsev reported, the expedition found "a huge, clear trace. . . . It would have been impossible for a man to have left it. The length of the foot was 34 centimetres, the width 16 centimetres across the toes."

After a plaster cast was made of the imprint, analysis showed that "it resembles American traces of huminoids, although there are some small details that are different," Burtsev wrote.

BEST BUS DRIVER IN B.C., Ray Rombough of 830 Roy Road, wheeled away with all the trophies in the B.C. Bus Roadeo in Vancouver on Sunday. Rombough, 46, manoeuvred through various obstacle courses to get 722 points out of a possible 800. He'll compete against the best from all over the U.S. and Canada in New York City later this month. Rombough, who works the Oak Bay and Crosstown routes, has had a perfect driving record since he signed on in Victoria in 1973. (Bill Halkett photo)

Planets hold 'seeds of life'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A noted biochemist today reported the strongest evidence yet that seeds of life exist throughout the solar system and that life on Earth apparently dates back 3.8 billion years.

Providing new insights into the life's origins, two reports by Dr. Cyril Ponnamperuma strengthen the idea that chemical evolution led to the development of life on Earth, and narrow the gap from 1.2 billion to 800 million years for the time it took for living things to develop from Earth's primordial seas.

Ponnamperuma, director of the University of Maryland's Laboratory of Chemical Evolution, said he and co-workers have found extra-terrestrial amino acids in two meteorites preserved in pristine condition by the deep freeze conditions of Antarctica.

Amino acids are chemical compounds that are basic constituents of proteins, which in turn are essential parts of living things. Ponnamperuma told a national meeting of the American Chemical Society that six of 11 amino acids in one meteorite and six of 15 in the other were clearly formed by non-biological processes.

The meteorites, both believed to come from the asteroid belt between Mars and Jupiter, are 4.6 billion years old. That means they date back to the beginning of the solar system, when the Earth and the other planets formed out of gas and dust.

"With our work on the Antarctic meteorites, we have found a classic example of some of the processes before life began in the universe," Ponnamperuma said at a news conference preceding his report to the chemical society.

"The processes of chemical evolution appear to be common in the solar system. The hypothesis that has been postulated for the origin of life, that is, the formation of organic compounds under pre-biotic conditions, has been verified somewhere else."

Although the meteorite results do not mean life exists elsewhere, it increases the chances that extra-terrestrial life could have evolved under the right conditions.

The first identification of amino acids of non-Earthly origin was made by Ponnamperuma in 1970 from a carbonaceous meteoride that fell near Murchison, Victoria, Australia, in 1969. That meteorite, however, had been contaminated by Earth organisms while the Antarctic meteorites were "clean." Ponnamperuma said the organic analyses of the insides and outsides of the meteorites were identical.

"So what this tells us then is that life is as old as the oldest sediments on the Earth," he said.

The oldest known evidence of life on Earth previously had come from South African rocks 3.4 billon years old.

NDP wing of council attacked

The only declared candidate in the civic election today blamed left-wingers on city council for obstructing development.

Council is increasingly dominated by aldermen Robin Blencoe, William McElroy and Larry Ryan, 19-year-old businessman Dermod Travis told a press conference.

He claimed there are half a dozen projects which should have gone ahead but are stalled because of this group's opposition.

"I think they've slowed development down — not just buildings," said Travis.

The three aldermen, all members of the New Democratic Party, have moved towards the community associations and their lobbyists have considerable influence on civic affairs, he said.

Gold pushes up again

LONDON (UPI) — Gold pushed up once again on the London and Zurich markets today and one Swiss dealer predicted it could reach $400 by the end of the year. The dollar opened marginally lower on most money markets.

Gold opened at $337.625 in Zurich, compared with $330.00 at Friday's close. In London, it opened at $336.625 compared with $331.375 Friday.

"Speculation took over again when the market opened Monday, forcing gold up once more. I think gold could reach $340 by the end of the month and $400 by the end of the year," one Swiss dealer said.

"We will never see $200 again. At the moment there is no sign that things will ease up."

In London, a dealer for bullion broker Samuel Montagu said gold remained "very quiet" with the price hovering around the fixing of $333.25 - $333.50 much of the time.

Miss Lillian booed for BBQ boo-boo

U.S. presidential mother Lillian Carter was first greeted with silence, then a smattering of boos from among 1,000 Democrats at a chicken barbeque in Nashua, N.H. when she spoke of Massachussetts senator Edward Kennedy's snowballing but as-yet undeclared candidacy for the 1980 presidential race.

. . . God gave win

"If he does run, I wish him all the luck in the world," she said. "I hope to goodness nothing happens to him. I really do."

The 81-year-old Miss Lillian, sharing the podium with California governor Jerry Brown and draft-Kennedy leader Dudley Dudley, continued:

"I don't know whether you are booing me or him, but don't you boo either one of us."

Key Carter supporters were troubled.

"She really screwed it up," said one. "She has got to get her act together."

Her apparent reference to the assassinations of John and Robert Kennedy overshadowed the much-publicized arrival of Brown, who Miss Lillian described as "a very courageous man" for daring to challenge her son.

While no one is certain what size foot the U.S. First Mother put in her mouth, it was a size-8 gumboot B.C. native Eugene Sturby of Hudson Hope flung 118 feet to win the world Wellie-hurling championship in London, England.

The 24-year-old University of Calgary phys ed student won $265 in sports equipment for the foot — rather, feat.

Miss Mississippi, now the new Miss America, says she will give 10 per cent of her $70,000 booty to God for her two "miracles" — walking again after a crippling childhood accident and winning the Miss America Pageant.

"God is the instigator of this whole thing," said Cheryl Prewitt after defeating 49 other contestants for the 1980 title.

A 1968 car crash left her in a body cast and wheelchair for eight months and although medics said she would not walk again, the 22-year-old contest winner said her prayers allowed her to do so.

In 1974, she said, she went to a revival meeting where 300 other believers joined to ask that her shorter left leg grow to match her right.

"I was sitting there very calmly; we prayed and we asked," she said. "I sat and watched my leg grow out instantaneously two inches."

Gerald Gordon of Baltimore is a typical donor. He's given them his 1972 Buick — says the tax break for charitable donation is better than a sale price since no one wants a gas-guzzler nowadays.

A tax break for your car is better than a bust — which is what recording star Burton Cummings got when Winnipeg police made a spot check of his vehicle in the city's north end early today.

Cummings, a Winnipeg native now living in California, entered no plea in provincial judge's court on a charge of possession of marijuana and hashish and was freed on $2,000 bail for one week.

Shady maid gets police reference

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (LAT) — Beverly Hills police detectives think they have shaken down the Dust Cloth Bandit, a woman jewel thief who struck some of the finer homes across the nation disguised as a live-in maid.

Carrie Lee Jenkins, 39, was arrested in Miami and extradited here to face arraignment on 12 counts of grand theft and burglary, a Beverly Hills police said. She is being held in lieu of $150,000 bail.

Miss Jenkins allegedly is connected with at least 18 burglaries in the Los Angeles area — 13 of them in Beverly Hills and about 50 in the swankier sections of New York City and in posher suburbs.

The take, from the Los Angeles area alone, is estimated at between $500,000 and $1 million.

The Dust Cloth Bandit allegedly worked this way:

She would pick her victims out of the classified section of the newspaper, looking for homeowners advertising for a live-in maid. Using a different alias every time, she would arrange for an interview and then present what police called "a very plausible" reason for not having verifiable references.

But, no sooner was the new employer out the door, than the Dust Cloth Bandit would be running through the house in search of the family jewels.

Rocky retirement

VANCOUVER (CP) — The veteran Vancouver police boat 99 began its last day of regular service today by running aground for the first time in its 15-year career.

The 10-metre cruiser was answering a suicide call when it failed to clear a reef off Ferguson Point. It was beached, then hoisted aboard a barge on a rising tide just after dawn.

Officials said the craft's bottom was damaged on rocks.

Put a cap on it

It comes as no surprise that the B.C. Supreme Court granted the Blueberry Indian Band a temporary injunction preventing an oil firm from reactivating four wells near the band's reserve in northeastern B.C.

However, what is surprising is the provincial government's lack of participation in the controversy surrounding possible health hazards from the oil wells.

As the authorities who licence oil wells, provincial officials have so far offered neither an explanation as to how wells with high health hazards could be located in people's backyards nor any assistance to the approximately 100 natives living on the reserve.

The federal health ministry has just completed a report which concurs with the charges the band has been making for the past two months about the health hazard presented by the four wells. The investigation found that levels of hydrogen sulphide on the the reserve to be much above the maximum allowable level.

It should be noted that the tests by the federal occupational and environmental health unit were made while the wells were not in full production. But even while barely operating, the investigation concluded the wells — located 500 meters from the reserve — blow an irritant and asphyxiant gas which causes health hazards ranging from minor and transient irritation of the eyes and respiratory tract to acute asphyxia and death.

The company which owns the wells, Kildonan Oil Company, has acted reasonably responsibly since the leak of 24,000 cubic feet of natural gas on July 16 sent members of the Blueberry Indian Band fleeing into the surrounding bush. Despite the loss of $5,000 to $8,000 a day, there has been no attempt to put the wells back into production. The company says it will wait until it is in a position to refute the conclusions of the report.

However, both the company and the provincial licencing authorities are fully aware that hydrogen sulphide gas can be an unfortunate by-product of oil wells. Before those wells were ever licensed, government officials should have known there would be emissions that could compromise the health of nearby Indian people. Steps should be been taken then either to contain the gas or to see that a proper settlment was made with the Blueberry people. If no agreement was possible, the wells shouldn't have gone in.

So much for what should have happened. Now it has been suggested that the Indians move to another location on the reserve. But the federal government, which has responsiblity for reserve natives, believes the provincial government should share the estimated $2 to $3 million bill because it licensed the wells in the first place.

The band, however, doesn't want to move. Who can blame them? If this situation had occured closer to an urban center, the storm of protest would almost certainly have put permanent caps on those wells.

Heading for a hat-trick?

Hearty congratulations to the Vancouver Whitecaps and the Victoria Shamrocks! Both teams brought sporting honors to the west coast over the weekend. The Whitcaps won the North American Soccer League Championship by beating the Tampa Bay Rowdies in New Jersey and the Shamrocks ended the victors in the Canadian Lacrosse League Championships against Peterbrough.

It was warming to see soccer fans turn out by the thousands yesterday to welcome the triumphant Whitecaps back to their home town. The response probably meant as much if not more to the members of the team than the silver cup bestowed upon them for the win. It truly made the agony and effort worthwhile. The win also figures highly in putting Canada into the international soccer picture and the fans showed their appreciation.

The 30,000 to 50,000 people who lined the streets for the victory parade were also a reminder to the organizers of major league sports that British Columbians are ready and willing to back a winner. The next time coaches and managers of major league teams, particlarly hockey and football, feel inclined to criticize the media and fans for a lack of support, they will have a shining example of just what can happen when they have a winner.

Unfortunately lacrosse hasn't generated the same response from the sporting community as soccer, but that certainly doesn't diminish the fine performance put in a by a dedicated group of athletes who are essentially amateurs. Lacrosse fans, although fewer in number, undoubtedly savored the Shamrocks win as much as the Whitecaps' supporters did theirs.

The next big sport title that the west coast stands a chance of acquiring is the Grey Cup. The B.C. Lions are making a valiant effort. With any luck, a sterling performance will give B.C. a hat-trick this year.

Poor planning

The federal conservatives have promised a 60,000 employee decrease in the civil service over the next three years, and it appears that the "sleight-of-hand" method of creating crown corporations will be used. Federal Treasury Board leader, Sinclair Stevens is not the only politician playing the "shell game" of moving employees from the public service and "privatizing" them into crown corporations. The B.C. Government Employees' Union has had lots of experience with the "privatization" of our own members right here in British Columbia.

Crown corporations abound in B.C. There's a B.C. Building Corporation, B.C. Systems Corporation, B.C. Ferry Authority, Urban Transit Authority, the community colleges and institutes, and on and on.

The popular myth is that because a crown corporation is not in the government it will be more efficient and will cost the taxpayer less money. The strange policies of at least one of these corporations, namely B.C. Building Corporation makes efficiency almost impossible and stupidity and waste inevitable.

A union staff person has reported an example of a crown corporation in action which I'd like to pass on to your readers. A government office was moving to the second floor of a modern office building. The staff involved had envisaged that the 3,000 square feet of floor space would be taken up with office, storage and open spaces, which would have provided for a pleasant and effectively utilized work space.

The problem with the staff plan was that they utilized the window space for everyone in the office, and the policy of BCBC is only bosses get windows. This posed a problem for BCBC planners as the office had windows on three sides. Undaunted, BCBC planners met the challenge by huddling the workers in small offices along the back wall, and gave the boss a large corner office. They created a 15-foot wide, but unusable hallway along the remainder of the windows. The result: an inefficient use of office space resulting in an expenditure by the ministry for hundreds of square feet of unused and unusable space; and the construction of a dismal office, rather than an attractive efficient one.

There is a hidden cost involved in this type of policy, not the up front cost in dollars and cents to the ministries, but the incalculable cost to the taxpayer in employee efficiency and morale. If this is the best BCBC can do after two years' operation, maybe the government should take a long look at the Frankenstein they have created. — John L. Fryer, General Secretary, B.C. Government Employees Union.

Stocks vs. bonds

Let us compare the performance of an investment in common stocks versus Government bonds over the past ten years.

Taking the most conservative common stock investment the shares of a certain Canadian bank could have been bought for $23 a share average (1969 range $19 to $27). In 1969 this share paid 77 cents dividend or a 3.35 percent return. I have no figures for Government bonds then but assume seven per cent was possible or a $1.61 on a $23 investment.

By 1979, how the picture has changed! So far this year the share you bought for $23 has averaged $42 in value, and the dividend is now at the rate of $2.20 a year, or a return on your original investment of 9.6 per cent. But your Government bond is still only giving you the same return and unless you are holding it to maturity, is worth much less, than what you paid.

This is not the whole story, because your bank stock dividend gives you a credit against your income tax. In fact, if all your income came from Canadian common stocks, you could have as much as $31,000 a year income and pay no income tax.

The warning for government bondholders (in fact all fixed returns) is clear. Our national debt may be only 18 percent of gross national product, but its real value is rapidly being reduced to zero. At the present rate of irresponsible government spending and annual deficits it is only a matter of time until, perhaps ten years from now, you have to pay $200,000 for a new car. What will a $200,000 investment in Government bonds, which looks so cosy today, look like in real money? — James P. Thornton, 943 Wilmer Street.

Well received

Let me expand on an item of real interest to your readers. Canadians like to know how well their products are being received in the U.S. and what new markets may be opened up for them.

These possibilities intrigued me too, as a former Canadian, and I have written a short article on the subject. As you well know, some Canadian products have had a good reception here for years, as the U.S. is Canada's largest customer.

These products cover almost a whole gamut of Canadian production, including newsprint, lumber, some foods, fuels, fabrics, china, etc. On the consumer level the best known Canadian products fall in the beverage field.

Producers of alcoholic beverages have long had an American following. On the food level, starting in the West with B.C. McIntosh apples, and to the East with Nova Scotia kippers, there is a large American market. People here say that when it comes to beer, beef and cheese you can't beat the Canadian products for quality and taste.

It appears to me that there is a large potential market for many Canadian items here, large and small. Molson's brewery is finding such a good reception for their beer here that they are embarking on a $60 million expansion program in Canada. On the other hand, a Canadian company, Northern Telecommunications Co. has recently come to San Diego County with a $35 million plant. Their telephone products are needed here.

Mirabel: Where the future is present

MONTREAL — Is Mirabel airport a $450-million lemon or simply a good idea ahead of its time?

Some critics say the huge airport 35 miles north of Montreal is a bigger financial disaster than the 1976 Olympic Games while others — like Mayor Jean Drapeau — insist Mirabel can become the key to Montreal's future economic development.

While the debate rages, Canadian taxpayers are footing the bill for the $50-million annual losses Mirabel has rolled up in almost four years of operation. The airport is handling only one-tenth of its potential passenger and cargo capacity.

The new Conservative government is trying to decide what to do with the white elephant it reluctantly inherited from the Trudeau Liberals. In opposition, several Tory MPs suggested the giant airport should simply be written off as a mistake and put into mothballs before it could drain the Canadian treasury even further.

The airport where the future is present

Will not scrap

But that alternative has been rejected by Transport Minister Don Mazankowski. "Mothballing would be just as expensive as running it empty," says an aide to the minister.

Instead, Mazankowski is expected to announce before Christmas that a large part of operations at Montreal's second airport — Dorval — will be shifted to Mirabel over the next five years. Dorval currently handles domestic and U.S. traffic while Mirabel is used only for international flights and a handful of connecting flights to Canadian cities.

The Mirabel saga began in the late 1960s when the airline industry was experiencing unparalleled growth. Planners realized Dorval airport — in the heart of the west island suburbs — could not be expanded to handle the air travel increase predicted for the 1970s.

The Trudeau government decided to build Mirabel — as an airport for the future. It expropriated 96,000 acreas of prime farmland for the project to provide room for future expansion and to create a noise buffer zone that would allow supersonic and jumbo jets to takeoff and land 24 hours a day.

The planners set aside land for an industrial park designed to help Mirabel become the major cargo airport in eastern North America. By the year 2025, the Mirabel master plan called for six terminal buildings and six runways that could handle up to 50 million passengers a year.

But Mirabel's visionary planners soon ran into one problem after another.

The 15,000 families displaced by expropriation were furious at the rip-off prices offered for their land by high-pressure agents of the federal government. After years of court battles and political posturing, Ottawa finally paid out about $150 million in compensation to the farm owners but the dispute had already tarnished Mirabel's image.

Then the Middle east oil crisis struck in 1973, driving up the cost of fuel and air fares and pushing the airline industry into a slump instead of the predicted travel boom.

At the same time, major international air carriers negotiated landing rights in Toronto rather than Montreal because of a larger potential market. Toronto soon surpassed Montreal as an international port of entry and Mirabel remained underused.

A highway system built by the Quebec government stopped six miles short of the airport. Quebec insists it won't finish the expressway until passenger traffic at Mirabel increases.

More than $6 million has been spent equipping the industrial park with services like roads and electricity but not a single industry has located there.

"It's a real mess of a problem," admits a ministry of transport source. "You've got a huge airport that nobody is using while Dorval airport is full and Toronto International is full."

The federal government sees the development of rapid transit and highway links as one way to increase Mirabel's usage but the Quebec government has been unwilling to commit itself to such a project.

"It's a real chicken and egg situation," says the Mazankowski aide. "Quebec won't provide access until the usage increases but the usage won't increase until the access is better."

Mirabel is now handling about three million passengers a year, half the potential capacity of the first phase terminal. Dorval is serving six million passengers while crowded Malton in Toronto struggles with more than 10 million passengers a year.

While the obvious solution seems to be to transfer flights from Dorval to Mirabel, the travelling public and the airlines want nothing to do with the new airport. Travellers like Dorval's proximity to both downtown and residential suburbs while the airlines find Mirabel too expensive to operate from.

Several international carriers have pulled their operations out of Mirabel completely since the airport opened, while many of the 26 existing carriers have had to cut back on flights because there is so little passenger traffic.

Drapeau dreams

But Mirabel's problems have not stopped Mayor Jean Drapeau from dreaming out loud. He insists the airport will become "the greatest single economic generator for Montreal and the surrounding suburbs," and even predicted the airport will become so important that a rapid transit system will be built linking Mirabel and New York City.

Drapeau envisions the airport some day handling one-third of all passenger and freight loads in eastern North America, serving all of eastern Canada and the northeastern U.S.

Andre Bellemare, head of a Transport Canada the team promoting Mirabel's development agrees with the mayor. He says Mirabel's 24-hour operating schedule and its huge cargo potential make it unique. Cargo could be trucked in and out of the airport from all over the eastern half of the continent.

A vigorous promotion program is underway in the northeast U.S. where airports are near saturation and businesses are being urged to consider Mirabel's advantages.

And if Toronto decides not to go ahead with a second airport, Bellemare foresees more traffic being directed Mirabel's way to relieve overcrowded Malton.

"It's the Klondike of the east," he says. "Some time in the 1990s people are going to be very thankful that this airport was built."

But to the Canadian taxpayer now paying for the Mirabel investment, 1990 is a long way off.

Landmarks

Some of our street names recall people in our local past. Some names are reminder of ships that were on this station in the 19th century.

HMS Sutlej was the flagship on this station of 1863-1866. When she arrived at Esquimalt in June 1863, she was completing a six-month voyage from Plymouth by way of the Strait of Magellan.

She was commanded by Rear Admiral John Kingcome, whose name is now recalled in Kingcome Inlet on our B.C. maps. In 1864, Admiral Kingcome was relieved by Rear Admiral Hon. Joseph Denman, and many of us have driven across Denman Island on our way to Hornby Island. (Rear Admiral Phipps Hornby commanded this station from 1847 to 1851. The flagship was HMS Asia.)

Like Ganges, Sutlej is a reminder of a river in India, from the 19th century when India was an important part of the British Empire.

Nuclear nonsense

By MARJORIE NICHOLS
The Sun

The current debate over nuclear energy in this province is a classic study in the bizarre ways of B.C. politics. It is emotional and anti-intellectual and assumes, at all times, that the universe is embraced in a relatively small hunk of land between the Pacific Ocean and the Rocky Mountains.

At its recent convention the New Democratic Party passed a resolution condemning absolutely and forever the development of all forms of muclear power. The NDP even imported a bona fide nuclear expert to provide the proper reinforcement for the preconveived views.

The 700 or so delegates gave a round of applause to the scientist when he said we could all be crystalized by a nuclear accident sometime in the near future.

'A hang-up'

Presumably a handful of survivors of such a holocaust could be counted on to vote NDP in the following election. Why else would anyone give a round of applause to a prediction of doom? Can you imagine, for example, a crowd applauding a prediction that several hundred more people might die on DC-10s?

Back when he was premier, Dave Barrett explained his opposition to nuclear development: "I just have a hang-up about it," he said.

W.A.C. Bennett also had a hang-up about nuclear power, which partly explains why British Columbia has no nuclear plants. But only partly. The real reason that B.C. has not gone nuclear is that the province is blessed with lots of mountains and rivers and streams suitable for damming.

After sitting through a debate such as the one at the NDP convention, it is amusing to contemplate what course the discussion might have taken if B.C. did not have those natural assests.

The fact is that by condemning even the exploitation of uranium deposits, Mr. Barrett and his colleagues are making some important judgments about not only British Columbia, but the rest of the world as well.

In the period immediately after the Second World War, Canada made a decision not to proceed with the development of nuclear armaments for non-peaceful purposes. The Canadian decision was to concentrate its considerable scientific expertise on the development of nuclear energy for peaceful purposes, namely as a source of power.

The result of that decision has been the development of the Candu reactor, which officials of the federal government are trying feverishly to sell abroad. Obviously there are some serious difficulties with some of the nuclear plants now being built in Canada and elsewhere. But is it not anti-intellectual to take the position, without thorough examination, that the problems posed are insoluble? Who says that we can't find an acceptable solution to the nuclear waste disposal problem?

It is unrealistic for any politician in British Columbia to stick his or her head in the gumbo. Nuclear plants are sprouting on the B.C.-Washington border and there is little that Mr. Barrett or the other anti-nuke enthusiasts can do about that. They are there.

Half the population of B.C. lives within cannon shot of those nuclear plants in Washington. Whether you consider that to be good, bad, or indifferent is irrelevant. They are there.

There will be strenuous objection, but it seems to me that there is little difference between those who oppose nuclear power and those of our predecessors who feared the sociological change brought about by the internal combustion engine.

Bonner candor

Robert Bonner, the head of B.C. Hydro, says he cannot rule out possible future use of nuclear power in the province. For that little bit of candor Mr. Bonner deserves a medal. If the head of B.C.'s power company were to preclude the use of nuclear power, that would be good cause for his dismissal.

At present the advocates of conventional sources of power can justify their moral position on economic grounds. But further development of conventional sources may soon prove financially unfeasible.

The nay-sayers will argue that this comparison is inept, but: In the past six months more people have died in plane crashes in B.C. than have been injured in nuclear accidents in North America in this century.

The question you have to ask yourself is this: Given the choice between nuclear power or no power, what would you choose?

Red Army officer bargains with farm women over privately-grown fruit

THE ECONOMIST

MOSCOW — The Soviet state may be the world's largest farmer; but Russians would go very hungry if collective workers did not grow little rows of vegetables and keep a few pigs and chickens in their back yards. Without these small personal contributions, the open-air markets in all towns would close down, fresh vegetables, eggs, meat, milk and potatoes would be almost unobtainable, and migration from the countryside would turn into a stampede.

Nearly a third of all the food produced in Russia is grown on little plots privately tilled by individual members of the huge rural population. After years of sniping at this survival of the free market, the authorities have now put ecomonics before ideology and are trying to encourage private-sector farming in every way possible. Last December President Brezhnev said farmworkers should be made to feel "that by raising cattle and poultry on their household plots they are doing a useful thing, something of state importance".

American experts estimated some years ago that private farming accounted for almost a third of all man-hours expended in Soviet agriculture, and almost a tenth of all man-hours expended in the whole economy. According to Russian statistics, there are 32 million tiny private plots. They make up only a small fraction of the total land under cultivation, but provide a quarter of the country's vegetables, two thirds of its potatoes and a third of its meat and milk. Collective farm laborers get no less than a quarter of their incomes from their private plots.

After Stalin's collectivization of agriculture, party ideologues maintained that private plots would fade away as the collective farms, with their up-to-date machinery and scientific management, got going. But the huge state farms have never been able to satisfy demand. They are often inefficient, many of their workers are elderly, and their distribution system is poor.

Khrushchev tried to get the peasants to work harder on the collective farms by restricting their private farming. But food production failed to increase, and after his fall the restrictions were quietly dropped. Peasants can now keep a cow, a calf, two or three pigs, 10 sheep or goats and a fair number of chickens, geese, ducks, rabbits and bees; and these ceilings may even be removed altogether.

Since Khrushchev's fall the Russians have spent huge sums on agriculture, the Achilles heel of their economy. Nearly a third of all Russian investment goes on fertilizers, farm mechanization and agricultural training centres, but bad weather, poor storage facilities and transport problems constantly hold back production. After the disastrous grain harvest of 1975, millions of animals had to be slaughtered, a blow from which the country is still recovering. Meat is still scarce outside Moscow, Leningrad and the big cities.

So the Communist party began discreetly to soften its ideological opposition to "ancillary farming", as it is officially known, and to portray it as a natural offshoot of the system. Mr. Brezhnev himself admitted last summer that "this form of labor, which does not involve exploitation, plays a useful role in our economy at this time." The ministry of agriculture recently introduced measures to boost production on private plots.

The government is also trying to get town-dwellers to go out and dig. They are allowed plots of up to 600 square yards with up to 20 chickens, five rabbits and five beehives. The press often points out the benefits of work on these allotments in teaching urban youth the value of physical labour, while cutting down crime and drunkenness. Factories are being encouraged to start market gardens and use the produce to feed their workers.

"Orchard-cultivation associations" are getting help too. People who join these go out at weekends to look after fruit trees and to till the land. In return these part-timers are entitled to the profits from fruit sales. The weekenders can also get government money to build themselves little summer cottages in the orchards, complete with terrace, attic, basement, toilet and shower. The authorities are hoping to turn the Russian town-dweller's summer urge to get out into a country dacha into something profitable.

Yet a new generation has grown up on the mechanized factory farms which has never learned how to milk a cow, skin a rabbit or cure a sick goat. Books are now being published by the million to show people the basics of private farming. The Russian authorities still cannot steel themselves to the idea that the middle way between the giant state farm and the tiny smallholding is probably more efficient and productive. The principle of collective agriculture really would be dead and buried if they did.

The pawnbrokers

An Editorial

British Columbia is not for sale — or at least, that's what Premier Bill Bennett told Canadian Pacific Investments Ltd. when it tried to take over MacMillan Bloedel Ltd.

But shares in the B.C. Resources Investment Corp., Mr. Bennett's showcase of home ownership, are being sold — and the buyers, for the most part, are not British Columbians.

According to brokers, most of the people seeking what the premier called at different times "a piece of the action" and "a piece of the rock" are Albertans, eastern Canadians and Americans, who have bought an estimated four per cent of BCRIC's 96 million issued shares in heavy trading on the Vancouver and Toronto stock exchanges and are still buying.

Well, nobody said B.C. couldn't be pawned.

THE GLOBE AND MAIL

Canada has the longest coastline in the world, fronts on three oceans, shares one of the longest inland water routes in the world, has recently declared a 200-mile fishing limit, and has no more than a midget merchant fleet operating under the Canadian flag.

This costs Canada money and exposes us to trading risks. "First," said T. Norman Hall, head of Hall Corp. Shipping Ltd. in Montreal, "there is the balance-of-payment argument. Every year, we pay foreign shipping companies $3 billion to transport our goods." That would be around half of last year's deficit in the balanee of payments.

There are other factors. Maritime nationalism is springing up around the world, with nations requiring that all or part of their exports and imports be carried in national bottoms. Canada has no merchant fleet with which to claim its own share of this international transportation field. Canada does not have the ships to face the particular problems of our own northern islands. And not having a merchant fleet, we do not have jobs for Canadian merchant seamen, and our shipbuilding yards are depressed.

The new federal Conservative government appears to have plans for changing this. At a recent meeting with Transport Minister Donald Mazankowski and Robert Howie, minister of state (transport), Thomas Lord, who is president of Cast North America Ltd. of Montreal, offered to bring Cast ocean-going ships under the Canadian flag if certain conditions are met.

Mr. Lord said the essential conditions for bringing Cast ships under rhe Canadian flag would be the tax-free status now available to ships operating under flags of convenience, and "stability in the labor market." He believed that other shipping companies "would probably do the same as we want to do if the climate was right."

Roman Gralewicz, president of the Seafarers International Union of Canada, who also attended the meeting, said, "They don't have anything to worry about;" the SIU, the largest union representing non-licenced seamen, "would be prepared to negotiate a deep-sea agreement based on the current Great Lakes agreement."

Mr. Lord may be assumed to be stating a bargaining position. What the Canadian government must be prepared to meet is not the tax and other concessions provided by flag-of-convenience countries, but those elsewhere in the industrialized world and in some of the developing nations where the determination to have their own merchant fleets has produced incentives and requirements that work.

Rear Admiral R. W. Timbrell, president of Dominion Marine Association, was quoted on an important point in the May, 1979, edition of Seaports and the Shipping World. "Since Federation," he said, "Canada has on three separate occasions enjoyed the benefits of having its own ocean-going merchant marine. Following a reasonable period of successful operations, the fleets withered on the vine principally because the owners failed to keep pace with technology.

Obviously, the development of a permanent deep-sea merchant fleet requires more than that Canada produce a carrots-and-sticks program that will persuade Canadian owners of ships to register them in Canada. If the full benefits are to flow from such a fleet, Canada must also be prepared to produce competitively certain types of modern ships. A good beginning could be made with icebreakers and ships designed to bring liquified natural gas from the Arctic islands.

Let's cut the no-nonsense

Russell Baker

A no-nonsense letter from the National Academy of National Academies puts the question crisply: "The 1980s will be here before you know it. What should America do about it?"

They have asked the right man. If there is one thing I have firm convictions about, it is what this country should do in the 1980s. The first thing it should do is reduce output of no-nonsense letters, as well as no-nonsense executives and no-nonsense politicians. Look where all this no-nonsense nonsense has got us in the 1970s. In a nonsensical pickle, that's where.

I say let's cut out the no-nonsense in the 1980s. While we're at it we should also cut out the habit of letting computers and desks write letters to living human beings.

Just yesterday I had a letter from the desk of Wilmer Bainbridge urging me to subscribe to a 12-month course in home insulation. This letter was written by a computer, which apparently serves as amanuensis for Bainbridge's desk. Why can't Bainbridge's desk write its own letters? Why doesn't Bainbridge's desk fire Bainbridge and cut expenses?

Better yet, why don't we fire all three of them in the 1980s and restore the peace of mind that my grandmother, rest her soul, knew in the halcyon days of William Howard Taft? She lived to a splendid old age, my grandmother, in large part because she never absorbed the shock of receiving a letter written by a machine at the behest of furniture.

Let's also cut out the inefficient business of taking two aspirin tablets every time a cold or headache comes along. One aspirin tablet can do the job with half the swallowing if American science will quit playing with mice long enough to invent the king-size aspirin tablet.

The secret of the king-size aspirin tablet is already well known to the Germans and Japanese. You double the volume of the present aspirin tablet. Let's have a crash program in the 1980s and beat the Germans and Japanese to something for a change.

We also need eyeglass defoggers. The 1970s gave us windshield defoggers but left the bespectacled driver just as blind as before by failing to extend the principle to his eyeglasses. What is the use of a clear windshield if you can't see the steering wheel?

While the 1980s are about it, they ought to give us a tomato shaped like a hamburger. In the 1970s, tomato science produced the square tomato, which can not only be easily packed in a cardboard box but also tastes like one. If hamburgers are going to be too expensive for the hamburger classes, let's at least give them a tomato that looks like a hamburger. A little laboratory work might even make it possible to produce it in six flavors — strawberry, raspberry, cherry, orange, fish stick and fried chicken.

And what about the car? Is fuel efficiency really what we need most desperately? I say what we really need is a car that can be shot when it breaks down.

Grandmother didn't make it to 97 by having her horse towed in for $267 worth of repairs every time it broke down. She called one of her sons, who shot it, then had him get into the traces and haul her home in the buggy. As she passed Locomobile owners waiting to have their ailing cars towed to the garage, she had a good laugh and stayed young-at-heart by shouting, "Next time get a son!"

There is plenty medicine can do in the 1980s, but nothing would help more than moving ahead with head transplants. The possibilities here are revolutionary. The sex-change operation, so commonplace in the 1970s, would become obsolete, since males who wanted to become females could simply arrange to exchange heads with females who wanted to be males.

If it turned out they didn't like it, each could return the other's head with no harm done and both parties a little wiser.

It would also end many of the present inconveniences of the presidential system. By exchanging heads with his predecessor, a newly elected president would no longer have to wait for the outgoing president to clear out his clothes closets before moving into the White House.

Finally, let's use the miracle of the computer to solve the crime problem and end violence on the streets. Nothing is easier. Every law-abiding citizen would be required to register for victimization, much as young men used to register for military drafts.

Every 10 days the computer would select at random victims required to be robbed by legalized criminals registered with a Federal Bureau of Thugs, Burglars and Knuckle-Duster Artists. When your number came up, you would receive notification as follows: "Greetings. You have been selected to be robbed by Maxwell Abercrombie of $37 in cash and your wristwatch. Please forward this loot to the Bureau for nonviolent transfer to your assailant within three days, or Abercrombie will be authorized to use his own methods of collection.

The government, of course, would tax Abercrombie's revenue, and also charge him an annual license fee. Some things will not change in the 1980s.

Stumpage rates overhaul urged

VANCOUVER (CP) — The provincial government is keeping logging relatively unprofitable despite low stumpage rates, says an economist and forestry expert.

Peter Pearse, who once headed a royal commission into forestry in the province, said Friday such requirements as road building tend to dissipate logging profits, thus negating any advantage logging companies might gain by low stumpage rates.

Pearse was commenting on remarks by Ottawa economist Lawrence Copithorne, who said that forest companies presently grant high wages to employees, deducting the cost against stumpage fees.

Copithorne claimed that as a result forest industry wages are held artificially high and stumpage artifically low.

He said that other industries whose wages are increased along with those paid by the forest industry do not have mechanisms such as stumpage fees against which to write off costs. Because of this, secondary manufacturing in B.C. is uneconomical.

Pearse agreed that reform in stumpage fees is needed but said he does not believe low stumpage fees lead to abnormally high wages.

He said Copithorne's analysis was simplistic.

Noting that there are no arbitrary rules prohibiting an unemployed person from entering the forest industry, Pearse said that the surplus pool created by workers flooding into the province seeking the high-paying jobs would create higher unemployment in B.C. than in other provinces.

"As it is, our unemployment rate is not significantly higher than rates found in the Atlantic provinces," he said. "Wages in B.C. have to be higher to hold guys up a side hill with rain running down their backs pulling chokers."

Acute-care beds snarl hits taxpayers

VANCOUVER (CP) — About 1,200 costly acute-care hospital beds a day are occupied by people who could get along with less expensive facilities, the British Columbia Health Association has estimated.

The result is that taxpayers are paying about $100,000 a day on facilities that are under-utilized.

Steps are under way to help relieve the situation, with 1,000 intermediate care beds a year expected to be added to facilities over the next three years.

A survey by the association last January showed 1,212 persons were in acute-care beds when they should have been in facilities offering long-term care. The situation was particularly evident in the Vancouver area with 426 beds involved, on Vancouver Island where 382 beds were under-utilized and in the Fraser Valley, where 206 hospital beds and 113 in psychiatric institutions were involved.

Taxpayers get hit by the problem, the association says, because the provincial health department reimburses general hospitals for the long-term care patients backed up into acute-care beds.

Average government grant for extended-care beds in public hospitals is $45 a day but the grant for acute-care beds is $125 daily. The hospitals are reimbursed for the difference between the two levels of care.

Morris Rhodes, chairman of the Long Term Care development committee, says 1,000 beds are under way from the past fiscal year; about 1,000 are approved in the current fiscal year and another 1,000 are hoped for next year.

Construction of those beds would enable patients requiring intermediate and extended care to vacate the acute-care beds they now occupy.

Tots' mother charged after hotel overdose try

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Nanaimo woman was charged Saturday with two counts of attempted murder after she and her two children were found unconscious in a hotel room suffering drug overdoses.

Police say Nora Loraine Bob and her sons, Allan Crawford Hilton, 5, and D.J. Hilton, 3, were found unconscious Thursday by a hotel clerk.

She is to appear in provincial court Monday.

The five-year-old is listed in satisfactory condition in hospital while the three-year-old is in poor condition.

The mother is now in police custody.

Bad weather delays search

FORT ST. JOHN (CP) — Fog and rain were delaying the search Sunday for a helicopter missing in northern British Columbia.

Eight military aircraft and a number of civilian planes, based at the Fort St. John airport, were waiting for a break in the weather to resume the hunt for a missing Bell helicopter, operated by Walter Yates of Austin, Tex.

Anik education program gets cool reception

TERRACE (CP) — An experimental educational program which uses the Anik-B satellite to relay course lectures to remote parts of the province is not attracting the interest that had been hoped, a college principal says.

Principal Val George of Northwest Community College in this west-central B.C. city says so far only one course of six being offered via satellite television has created any kind of interest. Some of the others have no enrolment to date.

And he says other colleges he has been in contact with have been experiencing similar enrolment problems.

The other colleges receiving the courses, which are beamed live from the British Columbia Institute of Technology in Burnaby, are North Island College in Port Alberni, East Kootenay Community College in Cranbrook, Northern Lights College in Dawson Creek and the College of New Caledonia in Prince George.

"The poor enrolment figures won't result in the program being scrapped this year because we are committed to the pilot project as is BCIT," he said. "But it could have pretty serious ramifications for the continuation of this type of programming.

"Unless the people in the province show by their participation that they really want this, the people in Victoria will conclude that the expense is not justified," he said.

The main expense is being born by BCIT through grants secured from the ministry of education.

The only course which has enjoyed popularity at Northwest Community College is a refresher course offered graduate nurses. Among the others offered are courses on mining, forest utilization and reading and study skills.

Rights case out in cold

VANCOUVER (CP) — A woman who has had her three-year-old discrimination complaint delayed by a strike at the company where she works says she is frustrated at the lack of progress.

Susan Jorgensen, 24, a lineworker who works freezing fish at B.C. Ice and Cold Storage Ltd., first complained in February, 1977, that she was not getting pay equal to that of men in similar jobs at her company.

A human rights board of inquiry was set up earlier this year by the provincial government to hear her case. But after the strike began at her plant a hearing was postponed with no future date set.

"I am frustrated," Miss Jorgensen says. "I feel like they are playing little games. We're on strike and my case is one of the issues."

She says nearly three years of waiting for something to happen wears a person down. "Some people would give up, but I'm stubborn. I figure I'll be 55 before it's settled."

She began working for B.C. Ice and Cold Storage in 1973 when she was 18 and an incident four years later made her think she was being discriminated against.

"My brother, younger than me, started working there in 1976 and inside a year was making more money than I was. He didn't think it was fair."

She says she asked to do shedwork, a higher-paying job done exclusively by males, but she was told no other woman had done it. The job involved lifting 33-pound boxes of herring.

Her union, the United Fishermen and Allied Workers, said she should be able to try the job but again she was told the work was too heavy.

Miss Jorgensen then went to her union and to the human rights branch to complain.

Capilano boats hazard eases

VANCOUVER (CP) Pleasure craft at the mouth of Capilano River no longer pose a serious hazard to deep-sea ships, a National Harbors Board policeman said Sunday.

Cpl. Charles Dawe said poor fishing has led to a decline in the number of small boats in the area and fishermen are now obeying boating regulations and keeping away from the shipping lane under Lions Gate Bridge.

Harbor Board police said last Monday more than 300 pleasure craft, many obstructing shipping, were at the mouth of the river.

He said recent rains raised the river's water level, allowing salmon to swim upstream with greater ease and decreasing the great number of fish lingering at the river mouth and attracting sport fishermen.

Searchers find air crash dead

TERRACE (CP) — The badly-burned bodies of three California men killed in a plane crash last week near this west-central British Columbia community were recovered by searchers Sunday.

Dead are pilot Philip Hardin of San Jose, Ray MacDonald of Vallejo and Ron Ballard of San Rafael.

Wreckage of their Cessna 206 aircraft was found Friday on the slopes of Kitsegecla Mountain about 50 kilometres northeast of Terrace but bad weather had delayed recovery of the bodies.

Persistence pays

SURREY (CP) — Persistence has paid off for an irate taxpayer who had hounded the federal revenue department for months looking for her 1978 income tax return refund.

Taxation centre manager Merrill Birch wrote out a personal cheque Friday to Andrea Scharff of North Vancouver for $216.80 — the amount of the refund — and $4.28 in interest after the woman went to his office and refused to leave until she got the money.

Ms. Scharff said the manager wrote out his cheque on condition that she reimburse him when she gets her return.

Equity monies on an upswing

TORONTO (CP) — An economic conference was told today that a substantial turnaround has occurred in the level of new equity financing in Canada for the first time in a decade.

In a speech to the Financial Times conference, Andrew Kniewasser, president of the Investment Dealers Association of Canada, also said there is a national consensus that the key to a better economic performance in the 1980s is through an improved allocation of capital to productive purposes.

He said in the first six months of this year, securities markets raised about $858 million in new, permanent equity financing for non-financial corporations.

"This is seven per cent of total financing during the period as compared with two per cent in 1977, and I expect this improved performance to continue throughout the balance of 1979."

Kniewasser also reported that revised forecasts indicate that Canada's capital requirements for the period of 1979 to 1990 will amount to $1.4 trillion. About $406 billion of this, or 28 per cent, would be invested in energy-related projects.

Newsprint production down 6%

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian newsprint production slipped 6 per cent in July, to 717,000 tonnes from 760,000 tonnes for July, 1978, the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association has reported.

Total newsprint shipments also dropped, slumping 5 per cent to 717,000 tonnes in July. Production and total shipments in the first seven months of 1979 both lost three per cent, to 5.1 million and 5.0 million tonnes, respectively.

The reduction in July output stemmed from intermittent strikes at mills in British Columbia and a continuing work stoppage at one eastern facility, the association said.

The industry operated at 92 per cent capacity in July, 1979, compared with 98 per cent last year, and 96 per cent for the first seven months, compared with 99 per cent the previous year.

Shipments to offshore markets lost 15 per cent in the month and seven per cent in the July-January period. Shipments to the U.S. fell by three per cent in both 1979 periods.

Agreement to drill in Quebec

CALGARY (CP) — Flag Oils Ltd. has announced it has reached agreement for joint exploration of the company's 2,500-acre property in Rouyn and Beauchastel townships in Quebec.

The agreement has been approved by the boards of Teck Corp., Teck Explorations Ltd. and Soquem, the Quebec government's mining and exploration company.

The group has put out tenders to drill three holes of 2,000 feet each about 500 feet east of a recently discovered copper zone.

Soquem will have a 45-per-cent interest, Teck, the operator, will have a 30-per-cent interest and Flag 25 per cent.

Inflation fuels sales figures

OTTAWA (CP) — Department store sales during July were 12.8 per cent higher than for the same month last year — mostly reflecting higher-priced goods, Statistics Canada has reported.

During the month, department stores across the country chalked up sales of $620.9 million.

British Columbia reported an 18.9-per-cent increase, bringing its total to $103.4 million.

Despite complaints, fishermen in pocket

VANCOUVER (CP) — For an industry beset with conflicts and uncertainties, British Columbia's commercial fishery never had it so good.

Higher prices are compensating for generally lower catches and the industry appears on its way to another record return this year, topping last year's $250.6 million.

The high point was the six-week herring season — always lucrative for B.C. fishermen, but this year an outright bonanza.

The Japanese taste for herring roe netted fishermen $130 million this year on a mediocre catch of 42,807 tons. Last year's haul of 69,669 tons saw a return of only $51 million.

Federal fisheries department figures show that the average gross take of each vessel that took part in the herring hunt was $275,000. One boat reaped a record $1.6 million worth of herring in one sweep of its nets.

Herring may be worth its weight in yen, but salmon is undisputed king and that fishery's reliable return makes it the foundation of the B.C. industry.

Predictions of an off-year for salmon have not resulted in a serious drop in catches. The run of spring salmon was down two million pounds from last year at 4.8 million pounds, and the sockeye catch at 14 million pounds is seven million off from last season.

However, the coho catch is up by two million pounds at 11.1 million and a good run of pink salmon on the Fraser River has resulted in a haul so far of 15 million pounds, up from 9.4 million a year ago.

It has been a good year, but not everyone is happy. In part because of the industry's health, arguments are being waged on several fronts over how the action should be divided.

The federal and provincial governments, meanwhile, are deciding how much action there will be to begin with.

The industry now is studying a federal report prepared by Dr. Sol Sinclair of the University of Manitoba which recommends that a new licensing system be established for Canada's coastal fisheries.

Sinclair argues that the industry cannot afford to continue to offer open, unlimited access and that a comprehensive policy is needed to ensure proper management.

The Sinclair report recommends that the issuing and transferral of fishing licences be restricted and that fee and royalty structures be revised.

The B.C. government is moving along the same lines. On June 29, the province stopped issuing new licences while licensing was being reviewed and policy devised on foreign control and financing in the industry.

There now are 6,200 fishing boats on the B.C. coast and about 18,000 personal commercial fishing licences issued annually.

Within the industry, the owners of seiners are calling for government action to restrict the activities of gillnetters in the herring fishery. The owners complain that their share has fallen from 90 per cent to 55 per cent in the last eight or nine years.

The processors, meanwhile, are expressing concern over increasing Japanese involvement in the industry, both in the form of direct investment in fish plants and in outbidding Canadian operators on the fishing grounds.

Most recently, there has been an exchange of diplomatic protests over Canada's arrest and seizure of 19 U.S. tuna boats which followed their quarry into Canadian waters.

Tuna don't often venture this far north, so the issue is not of Americans stealing Canadians' catches. Rather, it centres on the refusal by the United States to recognize Canada's 200-mile limit as it applies to migratory fish such as tuna.

Over-fishing of shared fishing grounds has also caused friction between the two countries this season.

Alaskan fishermen exceeded their halibut quota by more than one million pounds, prompting the International Pacific Halibut Commission to chop 300,000 pounds from the Canadian quota.

B.C. fishermen are demanding a full quota in 1980 and an extra measure to make up for what they lost this year.

Labatt's remains unrippled by internal struggles

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Anyone expecting fireworks during the annual meeting of John Labatt Ltd. on Friday was disappointed.

No new details were given about the decision to grant an indefinite leave of absence to Donald McDougall, president of the subsidiary Labatt Breweries of Canada Ltd.

And there was no confrontation resulting from the change in ownership of Brascan Ltd., a Toronto-based multinational corporation that is Labatt's largest shareholder.

About 950 shareholders, employees and guests — twice as many as attended last year — crowded into a blue-and-white tent for the meeting.

Labatt president Peter Widdrington told shareholders McDougall was granted an indefinite leave of absence because he and the company had different approaches to management of the brewing operation.

Asked later by reporters to elaborate, Widdrington and chairman Jake Moore said it was an internal matter and should not be discussed in a public forum. They said McDougall's status should be settled within six months.

McDougall, 41, was named this week by Prime Minister Joe Clark to head a study on how Petro-Canada can be returned to the private sector. His report on the federal agency is due in mid-October.

McDougall, who has refused to comment publicly on his leave of absence, received at least one vote of confidence during the meeting from Dave Scatcherd, a former London resident now living in Hawaii.

"Don McDougall has done a wonderful job to the brewery," Scatcherd told the meeting. "I'd like to thank him very much."

Elected to the board of directors by an overwhelming majority were Peter Bronfman, a partner in Edper Equities, which assumed control of Brascan earlier this year, and Trevor Eyton, chairman of Brascan's executive committee.

E. C. Freeman-Attwood, president of Brascan, continues as a Labatt director.

Earlier this year, Edper Equities successfully fought efforts by an investor group, led by Moore, to acquire F. W. Woolworth.

Moore, 63, dismissed speculation that he is leading an investor group's attempt to buy Brascan's shares in Labatt and London Life Insurance Co.

"I have no interest in pursuing those shares," he told reporters. "I'm approaching retirement age."

Labatt had net earnings of $22.4 million for the year ended April 30, down from $33.9 million the previous year. Per-share earnings this year were down to $1.71 from $2.53 last year.

The company said the reduction in earnings resulted from strikes in Western Canada in the summer of 1978 and a loss at a Brazilian brewery in which Labatt has an interest.

Inflation seen spiralling on

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street is holding out little hope for any early break in the inflationary trend that has pushed interest rates to record levels.

If anything, most analysts acknowledge, the signs point to further increases before inflation has run its course.

Banks are paying more than 11 per cent interest these days to investors who buy three-month commercial paper, a form of unsecured loan, from them.

"When banks are willing to pay this kind of rate for funds, it is a clear signal that they expect interest rates to remain at higher levels for at least the next 90 days," the Value Line investment survey said.

Since Paul Volcker took over as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board at midsummer, declaring a hardline approach to fighting inflation, the Fed has pushed rates sharply and steadily higher.

Friday, some leading banks raised their prime lending rates, which were already at a record 12¼ per cent, to 12½. Many others went a step further, increasing the basic charge on loans to their most credit-worthy corporate customers to 12¾ per cent.

Faced with this situation, the stock market turned in an erratic performance this week.

After the Labor Day holidy on Monday, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell sharply Tuesday and early Wednesday, but later steadied, finishing the week with a net loss of 13.48 at 874.15.

Not so long ago, the relationship of interest rates and the stock market was regarded as pretty clear. When rates declined, it was good news for the market; when they rose it was bad because business borrowing costs were increased, and yields of competing investments like bonds were enhanced.

Now, however, some important new variables, among them inflation and the state of the U.S. dollar, have been added to the equation. They have helped create a situation where investors are not sure whether to view rising interest rates as bearish or bullish.

Cattlemen air beefs

CALGARY (CP) — A meeting between representatives of national cattlemen's organizations from Canada, the United States, Australia and New Zealand discussed ways to stablize swings in the international beef market, but also pointed out some disagreement over the current market structure.

The two-day meeting, ended last week with a decision to step up communication between the groups, had no objectives other than to discuss the situation. The four countries are major suppliers of beef to North America.

All four groups pronounced themselves unhappy with the guaranteed minimum access (GMA) provision for beef imports into Canada and the U.S. under the recently concluded General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

But the North American cattlemen thought the GMA was too high, while the Australian and New Zealand representatives opposed restrictions of any kind on their exports.

The GMA allows 62 million kilograms of beef into Canada annually, with a provision for increasing it as the population grows.

Service prices houses

TORONTO (CP) — Land availability and servicing will be key factors in the price of houses when the federal mortgage tax deductibility plan comes into effect, a real estate developer says.

Michael Galway, executive director of the Canadian Institute of Public Real Estate Companies, says housing price increases won't approach the 25 per cent forecast by some economists. He predicts increases of 2¼ to 4½ per cent.

He said land availability is the responsibility of provincial and municipal governments.

"There should have been closer consultation between the federal government and the provinces and municipalities," he said. "If the municipalities or provincial governments throttle land, then there will be larger price increases."

He said the national housing market has been soft in the last year with only Calgary reporting a tight market.

"Housing starts are down to about 200,000 this year from a high of 273,000 in 1976. There is no question that we have already proven that the building industry is capable of meeting increased demand.

"If the land supply question isn't straightened out and there are a lot of delays with red tape then there will be added pressure. If the land gets processed, there are builders to jump in and they'll build."

East Germans win six of eight golds

BLED, Yugoslavia (AP) — East Germany reclaimed its coxless fours title Sunday, emerging from the world rowing championships with six of eight gold medals.

East German oarsmen also won the coxed fours, coxless and coxed pairs, quad sculls and eights.

In the coxless fours, East Germany left the defending champion Soviet Union in fourth place with a time of six minutes and .64 seconds over the 2,000-metre course.

Canada had to be satisfied with first place in the coxless pairs small final as Timothy Britton-Foster and Michael Evans of Woodstock, Ont., beat The Netherlands with a time of 6:54.64 to 6:58.46.

In the double sculls small final, Bruce Ford and Patrick Walter of Victoria placed second to William Belden and James Diets of the United States. The U.S. had a time of 6:37.09 to 6:38.79 for the Canadians.

Norwegians Frank and Alf Hansen kept their double sculls title and Finland's Olympic champion Pertti Karpinnen dethroned West Germany's titleholder in the single sculls.

East Germany's eight won in 5:36.41, 3.5 seconds ahead of New Zealand.

East Germany's coxed four pulled up from second place at the midway point to finish in 6:27.24, 1.99 seconds ahead of the Soviet Union.

Karppinen led all the way to take the single sculls title in 6:58.27. Gerd Uebeler, Juergen Pfeiffer and Georg Spohr saved East Germany's shaky title in the coxed pairs with a photo-finish 7:06.35 over Czechoslovakia, by six-tenths of a second.

In Saturday's semi-final heats, Ford and Walter placed fourth in the double sculls with a clocking of 6:34.43.

Cup holders knocked out

Gorge emerged as the season's initial giant killers by defeating Nanaimo on a penalty kick by Howie Kirk in the second half of the match at Nanaimo, Sunday.

The McGavin Cup competition is a the traditional season opener single-knockout tournament involving first-division teams of the Vancouver Island Soccer League.

In other games Sunday, Victoria Athletics trimmed Mestons 5-2 and Cosmo Royals edged Castaways 4-3.

On Saturday, provincial champion Victoria West edged Oak Bay 1-0.

Victoria West is one of four teams which will take part in the Canadian soccer championships beginning here Friday and running through until the final Sunday.

Mestons scored the first and last goal of their match, but Athletics scored five goals in between.

Bob Young opened the scoring, and before Steve Farrell could finish it, George Hyne, Murray McCaig, Keith Bridge with two and Dave McCaig had scored for Athletics.

Cosmos took a 3-0 halftime lead in their match with Castaways on goals by Chris Bridgman, Rudi Kubler and Ken McFarlane. Brian Heaps scored two goals for Castaways and Robert Gutierrez one in the second half but it wasn't enough as Mark Wyatt had sandwiched a counter between Heaps' pair for the winning margin.

Steve Moss scored the only goal of the game for Wests on a pass from Frank Woods.

Athletics meet Cosmos at Athletic Park, Wednesday, and Gorge plays Vic West next week.

Burnaby captures third Minto Cup

CALGARY (CP) — Burnaby Cablevision won their third consecutive Minto Cup junior A Canadian lacrosse championship Saturday with an 8-6 victory over Peterborough Century 21 Centurions.

Burnaby captain John Swan, who scored four goals in the final game, was named the tournament's most valuable player. Swan, 21, who was drafted in the late rounds by the National Hockey League's Montreal Canadiens in 1978, was also the tournament's top goal scorer with 13 in five games.

"I've been in three Minto Cups and this one was undoubtedly the toughest," said Swan, a law student at Brandon University. "It could have gone either way."

With the score tied 6-6 midway through the final period, Burnaby's Lyle Robinson scored to put his team ahead. Then, with 20 seconds remaining in the game, Peterborough pulled its goalie and Robinson insured the win with an empty-net goal.

Paul Dalmonte and Dan McLenaghen were the other Burnaby scorers. Larry Floyd and Warren Ferguson scored two each for Peterborough, with John Munroe and Bob MacDougall adding singles.

Peterborough outshot Burnaby 44-34.

Offense sputters as Dolphins bow

Surrey Rams expanded a 10-2 half-time lead into a 25-2 victory over Victoria Dolphins in a British Columbia Big Four Junior Football League game Sunday at Royal Athletic Park.

John Buxcey rushed for 53 yards and Kym Clarke chalked up 25 yards for the Dolphins, who managed only seven first downs.

Victoria punter Bob McKeachie averaged 41 yards per kick.

Dolphins, now with a 1-4 won-lost record, wrap up the home portion of their schedule by playing host to Richmond Raiders at 5 p.m. Sunday at Royal Athletic.

In the other game, Saanich Hornets took over sole possession of first place by tripping Nanaimo Headhunters 14-7 in the Hub City.

Scott Tuttle led Farmers, who were ahead 8-6 at half time, with two touchdowns while single majors were added by quarterback Terry Jones, Mark Edgington and Steve Percival.

The lone Thunderbird TD was scored by W. Miller.

At Nanaimo, Tom Graham scored both TDs for Hornets and Andy Moodie provided both conversions.

Mann Cup is back where it belongs

By BILL WALKER
Times Staff

Everybody had a little bit to prove at Memorial Arena Saturday, Victoria Shamrocks most of all. And they did it.

They won the Mann Cup, emblematic of senior lacrosse supremacy in Canada.

They won it convincingly, for the first time since 1957, by sweeping the series from the defending champion Peterborough Red Oaks, four straight. And they won it on their merits without some of the so-named big players, the addition of whom had given rise to controversy.

And, in doing so, they destroyed the image that theirs was a win-at-all-costs venture.

The final game, before the season's largest crowd of 4,800, was the toughest of them all; and it was junior recruit Jim Boyd, who had sparked Friday's win, who became the hero of the piece.

Boyd fired the winning goal with only 10 seconds left to play to give the Shamrocks a tough 13-12 decision in a vicious, hard-hitting struggle. Boyd had scored four goals in his first cup game Friday.

There was no quarter asked or given in this one, as the officials conveniently neglected to call any penalty infractions (and there were plenty) in the final furious 10 minutes. It would have been unfair to either team at the time.

As it was, the Shamrocks, for the first time in the series, had to come from behind to win. And, as champions should, they did.

Peterborough, in a do-or-die situation, had made a gallant rally, coming from behind a 9-4 deficit as late as the 17:22 mark of the second period to take the lead at 10-9 at 9:33 of the third after having a goal disallowed because J.J. Johnston, who scored it, had left the penalty box illegally.

Seconds later, Johnston, still furious over the previous call, gave his club the lead to set up a torrid climax.

Bob Cool, the leading goal scorer of the series with 11, got the Irish even. John Grant restored the one-goal edge for Peterborough three minutes later. Art Webster got that one back in less than a minute to tie it at 11.

Then Ivan Thompson, who was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player and winner of the Mike Kelly medal, showed why as he scored his third to put the Rocks ahead 12-11.

But the Oaks weren't through. Veteran Larry Ferguson, oldest player in the series at 40, tied it again with 3½ minutes to play.

And that's the way it remained until Dan Wilson hit Boyd with a long pass to set up the winner.

With the Mann Cup held high, Ranjit Dillon, the Shamrocks' veteran star — his goal of a Mann Cup victory achieved after 14 years — and captain Larry Bell led the first victory lap around the arena.

The Rocks played this one without the services of Vancouver's Doug Hayes, New Westminster's Wayne Goss and scoring star Kevin Alexander. Hayes and Goss were diplomatically dropped, while Alexander was injured in Friday's game and unable to compete.

Coach Bill Munroe of the Shamrocks also used reserve goalkeeper Scott Marshall while his counterpart, Ben Floyd of Peterborough, matched that move by using his backup goalie Les Teatro. Both play well.

WLA commissioner Wally Donaldson, the subject of controversy for allowing the Shamrocks three additional players (last year Peterborough was granted four and Victoria one), said the entire agreeement between the WLA and the Ontario Lacrosse Association will be reviewed before next year. Donaldson himself does not favor pick-ups.

Thompson had three assists to go with his three goals and led all series scorers with seven goals and 24 assists for 31 points. Cool had three goals and two assists for 18 points. Dan Wilson had four assists and 22 points. Boyd had three assists to go with his game winner. Single goals went to Dillon, Dave Lowden, Chris Hall, Art Webster, Rick Baker and Jim Lynch. Alexander had eight goals and 13 assists for 21 points in his three games.

J.J. Johnston, Peter Guerin and Ferguson each had two goals for Peterborough while singles went to Tom Parnell, Bob Wasson, Guy Legault, Bob Wasson and Jim Wasson.

Ken Alexander, father of the lacrosse-playing Alexander brothers, and designated "Victoria's No. 1 lacrosse fan", was honored by being presented with the game ball. He received a standing ovation. It was also announced that former Shamrock general manager Norm Kowalyk, who passed away suddenly last year, has been named to the lacrosse Hall-of-Fame. His wife Olga participated at the ceremomial face-off.

Lions' sub picks flaw for winner

By The Canadian Press

The visiting British Columbia Lions edged Winnipeg Blue Bombers 17-15 Sunday, coming from behind in the fourth quarter in the only contest of the weekend in the Canadian Football League which was not lopsided.

Meanwhile, the unbeaten Edmonton Eskimos retained their one-point edge on the Lions atop the CFL west with a 40-0 whipping of winless Saskatchewan Roughriders in Edmonton while Montreal Alouettes drubbed Toronto Argonauts 31-11 in Montreal.

On Saturday Ottawa defeated Hamilton 44-4.

The Lions came back from a 12-10 deficit early in the fourth quarter, capitalizing after B.C. defensive back Ken Hinton picked off a pass by Winnipeg quarterback Bill Troup.

With possession on the Bomber 49-yard-line, quarterback Joe Paopao, in for starter Jerry Tagge who was recovering from a blod clot, used Terry Bailey for two quick passes and then threw to Tryon Gray, who scored on a 29-yard pass and run.

Larry Key scored the other B.C. touchdown in the third quarter, while Lui Pasaglia kicked two converts and a field goal. Mike Holmes scored the only Winnipeg touchdown in the third quarter and Bernie Ruoff accounted for the other points with two singles, a convert and a fourth-quarter field goal which closed the gap to 17-15.

Backup B.C. quarterback Mike Nott picked what proved to be the winning play. He said he noticed the Winnipeg cornerback moving up on several successive quick screen patterns and suggested Gray repeat the pattern, then take off downfield.

"We figured it would work and it worked," said Gray jubilantly.

Meanwhile in Edmonton, Eskimo running back Jim Germany was tearing up the field at the expense of Saskatchewan Roughriders, gathering 145 yards on 20 turns, including two first-quarter touchdowns.

Quarterback Warren Moon, in his first start of the season, produced a good mix of pass and run plays, but used Germany to extra advantage. The Eskimos ran up a halftime score of 39-0, then coasted.

Moon scored one of Edmonton's second-quarter touchdowns, while rookie receiver Brian Kelly provided the only airborne score on a five-yard pass from Moon, and Angelo Santucci capped a 99-yard drive with a touchdown. Dave Cutler was good on one of three field goal attempts, settling for two singles and converting all five touchdowns.

In Montreal, running back David Green got to do what he likes most, run a lot. Green piled up 210 yards on 26 carries, including a touchdown on the last play of the game as the Als won as they pleased.

Ottawa's victory was their fourth. Running back Emmett King, an import in his second start with the Riders, ran 141 yards on 25 carries and scored two touchdowns, while running mate Calvin Prince went 64 yards on 11 carries in his first game.

A third newcomer, wide receiver Martin Cox, caught seven passes for 120 yards and two touchdowns.

Land speed record

Times News Services

Hollywood stuntman Stan Barrett raced across Utah's Bonneville salt flats in his rocket on wheels Sunday to set a world land speed record of 1,021 kilometres an hour (638.637 miles).

Barrett, 36, broke by more than 11 kmh (seven miles) the previous highest speed for a manned wheeled vehicle of 1,010 kmh set by Gary Gabelich in 1970.

Barrett's triumph was marred when four members of a television crew apparently flew too close to his vehicle in a helicopter. Rocket fuel was blown on the men by the blades of the helicopter and they were taken to a hospital suffering from fumes, officials said.

Tony squirms for joy as Whitecaps No. 1

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Tony Waiters was squirming. His team was within reach of its first Soccer Bowl championship but having just a one-goal lead made him a nervous coach.

"All season, we've never been able to sit back and be comfortable," he lamented.

However, this time all the squirming was for joy as his Vancouver Whitecaps scored a 2-1 victory Saturday over the Tampa Bay Rowdies for the North American Soccer League championship.

"We never get ourselves in position to be two or three goals up and I didn't expect it to change," he said.

With goalie Phil Parkes allowing his customary one goal a game and the Whitecaps matching that in the first half, the expected defensive struggle began to materialize.

Vancouver allowed just 34 goals during the regular season but scored just 54, making for numerous close matches. The Soccer Bowl was no different.

Trevor Whymark, voted the outstanding offensive player of the game, had put Vancouver on top at 12:37 but Tampa evened the score on a goal by Jan Van Der Veen.

The winning goal came at 59:37 when Whymark's low hard kick was deflected by Tampa Bay's defender Barry Kitchener, changing the course of the ball.

The Whitecaps scored the opening goal when Wymark found the net unassisted.

Kitchener also was the goat on that play, grabbing at the Vancouver player when he went around him.

"I got only part of his jersey and it came off in my hands," Kitchener said.

A short time later, the Whitecaps had a great chance to put the game out of reach when Whymark took a 20-yard free kick which slammed off the right post. The rebound bounced in front where Kevin Hector had an open net, but hit the crossbar.

Vander Veen split the Vancouver dedence of captain John Craven and Roger Kenyo and hit an 18-yarder from the top of the box for Tampa's goal.

Parkes was brilliant as the Rowdies desperately pushed for the tying goal.

"All credit to Vancouver," said Tampa coach Gordon Jago, who made a surprising move by lifting star forward Rodney Marsh with 11 minutes to play. "We knew whichever offence got on top, that little bit of luck would do it. They got the second goal and that's what wins finals. We were convinced at 1-1 the second goal was going to win it."

Whymark, who said being the hero "was like something you read about in comics," felt his team was exerting enough pressure to expect a score.

"In the second half, it was a matter of time before we scored," he said. "I thought we could hold them after. At halftime, we said 'Let's be professional about it and hold the lead.' This is a great feeling."

Alan Ball of Vancouver was named the playoff MVP, Craven the defensive most valuable player.

The Whitecaps eliminated Houston, Los Angeles and the Cosmos on their way to the championship. The Rowdies got by Detroit, Philadelphia and San Diego.

The crowd of 50,699, with no-shows numbering 16,000 because the hometown Cosmos were eliminated, provided a bit of comic relief by occassionally chanting, "Cosmos, Cosmos."

Speedway, cricket action washed out

Errant showers washed out stock car and jalopy racing for the second stright day Sunday at Western Speedway.

The program was originally postponed from Saturday night because of heavy rain but showers, which missed other parts of Greater Victoria, forced cancellation of the program Sunday afternoon.

All matches Saturday in the Victoria and District Cricket Association were also abandoned because of the rain.

B.C. youth breeze to Western crown

BURNABY — British Columbia tripped Alberta 8-3 Sunday to capture the Western Canadian under-16 youth soccer championship with an unblemished record at Swangard Stadium.

The final game of a round-robin competition which started Friday left B.C. with a 3-0 record after an 11-1 win over Manitoba in the opener and another 11-1 triumph over Saskatchewan.

Mark Karpun set the pace in the final game with four goals while Paul Askew of Victoria added two and singles were contributed by Frank Yallop and David Richardson.

Adam Keith, the other Victorian playing on the B.C. squad, scored a goal against Saskatchewan.

The team, coached by Alan Errington and managed by Charlie McCullagh — both of Vancouver, now plays the Eastern Canadian champion for the national title Sept. 29 at Swangard Stadium.

Third straight for Cowichan

Cowichan Chiefs tripped Saanich Hornets 38-16 Sunday at Cedar Hill Park to take over first place in the Vancouver Island Bantam Football League.

In other games, Saanich Vampires bulldozed Nanaimo Trojans 45-0 at the same site and Juan de Fuca Tigers defeated Oak Bay by default at Juan de Fuca Recreation Centre.

Hot Expos spoil Lou's party

Times News Services

Woodie Fryman, who also has a few years under his belt, did his part to spoil Lou Brock's retirement party.

Fryman, the 39-year-old baseball reliever, served up a fat pitch and got away with it against Brock in the seventh inning at St. Louis Sunday while nailing down the Montreal Expos' 4-1 victory over St. Louis Cardinals.

The triumph, the Expos' 12th in 13 games, kept them one game behind Pittsburgh Pirates in the scramble for the National League's East Division title.

"We could use help from somebody else, but we're just going to go out and there do it ourselves," said Expo catcher Gary Carter, who pounded out three hits. "We have some ball games left against Pittsburgh. Those are going to be important."

Meticulously, Fryman pitched two perfect final innings to post his ninth save. But, in respect to a late-inning delivery to Brock which wound up as a rally-killing double play, the veteran pitcher was not bragging.

A 33-foot cabin cruiser and a new car were among gifts showered on the retiring Brock, who drew a thunderous applause from a crowd of 46,351 during a ceremony to retire Cardinal uniform No. 20.

As the sun set over the West Division, Houston Astros were back on top — thanks to another player in the twilight of his career.

Jesus Alou, 36, has spent this season as a pinch-hitter and coach for the Astros. He has batted only 37 times, with nine hits — the latest a two-run double in the four-run eighth inning that carried Houston to a 4-1 triumph over the San Francisco Giants.

The Astros trailed 1-0 and had managed only four hits through seven innings. Then in the eighth, pinch-hitter Dave Bergman and Cesar Cedeno singled off San Francisco reliever Greg Minton.

Astros' manager Bill Virdon went to the bench for Alou and he responded with the clutch double that brought Houston from behind.

In the American League, Baltimore Orioles hit three home runs on their way to beating Boston Red Sox 16-4 at Fenway Park.

"I don't believe I ever sat in a ballpark and said, 'I hope we don't get any more runs,' " said Orioles manager Earl Weaver. "But I did today."

Rick Dempsey cracked the first grand slam home run of his career and Gary Roenicke and Al Bumbry also homered in the 16-hit Baltimore flurry that helped the Orioles improve their lead in the AL East to 12½ games over Milwaukee Brewers.

Youth takes over in U.S. Nationals

NEW YORK (AP) — In a glimpse into the future of tennis, 16-year-old Tracy Austin and 20-year-old John McEnroe won the U.S. Open championships Sunday, beating older, more experienced players.

Austin beat four-time defending champion Chris Evert-Lloyd 6-4, 6-3 to become the youngest ever to win the U.S. women's title.

McEnroe downed fellow New Yorker Vitas Gerulaitis 7-5, 6-3, 6-3. He is one of the youngest men ever to win the championship.

"It's the best feeling — about tennis — I've ever had," McEnroe said. "Not the best over-all, I guess," he added, pausing for reporters' laughter, "but it's pretty nice."

Austin and McEnroe each won $35,000.

Neither McEnroe nor Gerulaitis has been popular in his home town. In fact, both have been booed roundly in this tournament. But there were no incidents with the sell-out crowd Sunday.

Spectators cheered noisily for Gerulaitis, and they were polite and appreciative of McEnroe's work.

McEnroe got a firm handshake and a pat on the shoulder from Gerulaitis, who lives five minutes away from him and who learned the game at the same tennis centre.

Austin got a pat on the head from Evert-Lloyd.

Austin and McEnroe, each ranked third in the world, are at the vanguard of a wave of youth in the game. Each has played only two years with the pros, but they have now established themselves as fearsome opponents.

For McEnroe and Gerulaitis — who will be partners when the U.S. plays against Argentina in the Davis Cup series this week — it was a scrapping battle but just for one set.

Gerulaitis quickly left the stadium and refused to attend the customary post-match interview.

Bob Hewitt and Greer Stevens of South Africa won the mixed doubles championship from Frew MacMillan of South Africa and Betty Stove of the Netherlands 6-3, 7-5. On Saturday, Stove and Wendy Turnbull of Australia downed Billie Jean King and Martina Navratilova in women's doubles 7-5, 6-3.

McEnroe and Peter Fleming beat Stan Smith and Bob Lutz 6-2, 6-4 in men's doubles.

TRACY AUSTIN . . . and the big prize

City team nucleus of touring all-stars

Victoria Home Lumber, defending Canadian senior "A" women's basketball champions, are to become goodwill ambassadors behind the Iron Curtain.

The team has been invited to play in a tournament in Ruzomberok, Czechoslovakia, and tour other parts of the country.

The squad leaves Sept. 23 and returns Oct. 7.

Expenses for the tour — which was arranged through the B.C. Amateur Basketball Association — will be paid by a Vancouver engineering firm building a pulp and paper plant in Rozomberok.

Although the squad carried the Home Lumber label, the touring squad will be more of a provincial all-star team.

Leslie Godfrey, Lorna Lundeen and Marg Mainwaring are the only current members of Home Lumber making the trip. Mary Coutts and Diana Morris, members of Lumber teams that won the Canadian titles in 1975 and 1976, have come out of retirement to make the tour.

Sandy Lewis and Rose Jossul of Victoria may also make the trip along with Vancouverites Bev Bland, Gail Klaver, Joanne Sargent, Cheryl Kelsey, Eileen Galuska and Allison Towriss.

Jack Lusk, coach of all three national championship Lumber teams, will handle coaching duties on the tour, Bob Coutts is the trainer and Jon Gurban is the BCABA representative.

PUNTER TRADED

Revived Graham picks up another

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Veteran Lou Graham grudgingly surrendered the lead in morning round, then rebounded with a pressure-packed effort in the afternoon for a one-stroke victory Sunday over Ben Crenshaw in the $250,000 Pleasant Valley golf tournament.

Forced to play two rounds in one day because of a rain-delayed start, the 41-year-old Graham reacted like a youngster, touring the final 18 holes in two-under-par 69 for a 72-hole total of 275.

Holding a two-stroke lead at 135, seven-under par, after 36 holes, Graham took a regulation 71 in the third round, slipping one stroke behind 1978 NCAA champion Dave Edwards, who fired a 66 for a 205 at the three-quarter mark.

The 23-year-old Edwards, an all-America at Oklahoma State who qualified for the Professional Golfers' Association tour last fall, faded with most other challengers as only Crewshaw managed to stay close to Graham.

Graham put together rounds of 68, 67, 71 and 69 in only his fifth victory in 16 years on the tour, but the second this year.

The victory was worth $45,000 to Graham, raising his earnings for the year to nearly $135,000. It also qualified him for the World Series of Golf, Sept. 27-30.

Sandown mutuels ring soggy farewell

By BILL WALKER
Times Staff

Sandown's second summer of harness racing came to a soggy but significant ending Saturday with a record mutuel handle despite the worst weather conditions of the meeting.

A get-away day crowd of 1,873, huddled in and under the stands as a driving rain drenched drivers, horses and track, wagered a record $164,665 on the 10-race card.

The previous one-day high was on Labor Day when $158,845 was put through the mutuels, and it was the fifth time during the meeting that last year's high of $137,868 had been topped.

This pushed the mutuel total for the meeting to $6,393,444, compared to $4,600,243 last year;

— Set a daily average of $98,361, an increase of 21.9 per cent over 1978;

— Set a new per-race average of $10,278, an increase of 15.5 per cent;

— And established a per-capita betting mark of $73, an increase of 19.8 per cent.

Only the fan totals remained constant. There a was a minimal average increase of 50 a day.

As for the punters, they can live in the memory that if they had picked every Exactor, they would have received an average return of $78 in every race. That figure, of course, is helped by the fact that there was a B.C. record Exactor payoff last Monday of $3,212.40.

There were 622 races over 65 days with a total of 410 horses being entered at one time or another.

B.C. Classy, a four-year old bay gelding, who was purchased by Julius Vanthuyne of Simpson, Sask., during the meeting for a reported $25,000, ended up as the Invitational champion.

B.C. Classy had six victories, four in its last five races including Saturday's closing-day feature, where under Greg Tonkin, it made every post a winner.

The eight-year old Governors Star Boy was horse-of-the-year with 11 victories.

Driving honors were not determined until the final day and went to Joe Hudon over Keith Linton, by a margin of nine points under the Universal Driving Rating format.

Linton, who had the most winners, 85, had led for most of the season, with Hudon coming on strongly at the close following his recovery from a broken leg.

Hudon was presented with the CFAX trophy by Keith Dagg before the start of the final race. Hudon also topped the most-popular driver poll.

The standardbreds now move to Cloverdale, beginning Oct. 15, while the thoroughbreds start at Sandown for 16 days on Oct. 17.

The Steel Curtain just won't budge

By The Associated Press

Touted as a rematch, it wound up looking more like a replay.

Eight months ago Pittsburgh Steelers ignored — or took advantage of — freezing rain and beat the visiting Houston Oilers 34-5 to take a big step toward their Super Bowl win.

Sunday's regular-season game was being hailed as a rematch of that showdown. This time the weather in Pittsburgh was the opposite — sunny and warm — but the result was virtually the same. This time the Steelers mauled the Oilers 38-7.

It was frightening what the Steelers did. On offence, Terry Bradshaw passed for two touchdowns. But it was the Steel Curtain defense that really shone.

The Oilers managed only 124 total yards. Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini, who raved about the flak jacket that protected him from the Steelers in his previous visit, could have used a tank this time. Pittsburgh sacked him five times, intercepted three of his passes and sent him to the sideline with a jammed arm. He completed four of 16 passes for 16 yards.

On the ground, things were no better. Earl Campbell, who routinely rolls up 100-yard games, finished with a pro low 38 yards.

Steve Grogan passed for five touchdowns to give rookie coach Ron Erhardt his first victory as New England Patriots trampled New York Jets 56-3.

Buffalo's Roland Hooks scored four times — on runs of two, 32, four and 28 yards — Isiah Robertson ran 23 yards for a TD with an interception and fellow linebacker Lucius Sanford blocked a punt and returned it three yards for a score as the Bills demolished Cincinnati Bengals 51-24.

San Diego's Dan Fouts passed for three touchdown and Woodrow Lowe ran back an interception of a Ken Stabler pass 32 yards as the Chargers shelled Oakland Raiders 30-10.

Brian Sipe of Cleveland also passed for three TDs, including a a 21-yarder to Reggie Rucker with 52 seconds remaining, to lead the Browns past Kansas City Chiefs 27-24.

Chicago's Walter Payton ran for 182 yards, including touchdowns of 43 and 26 yards as the Bears beat Minnesota Vikings 26-7.

Bob Griese threw a pair of TD short passes, Uwe von Schamann kicked field goals of 36 and 31 yards and Miami intercepted three Jim Zorn passes as the Dolphins turned back Seattle Seahawks 19-10.

Roger Staubach threw his first two touchdown passes of the season to give Dallas Cowboys a 21-13 victory over San Francisco. O. J. Simpson ran for 43 yards and the 49ers only TD.

Rookie Steve Atkins scored Green Bay's winning TD on a three-yard run in the third period, then sprinted 60 yards to set up Eric Torkelson's three-yard insurance TD run as the Packers defeated New Orleans Saints 28-19.

A 41-yard field goal by Washington's Mark Moseley with eight seconds left gave the Redskins a 27-24 victory over Detroit.

Ottis Anderson became the fourth rookie in NFL history to rush for 100 yards in each of his first two games as St. Louis Cardinals rallied from an early two-touchdown deficit to beat New York Giants 27-14.

Neil O'Donoghue's 31-yard field goal on the third play of overtime, after Bill Kollar recovered a Greg Landry fumble, gave Tampa Bay Bucaneers a 29-26 victory over Baltimore Colts.

GATESHEAD, England (AP) — British sprinter Allan Wells produced a strong finish to defeat American ace Houston McTear in the 100 metres during an international track and field meet Saturday. Wells' time was 10.26 seconds, McTear's 10.30.

It was bad day for Canada

MEXICO CITY (CP) — Canadian athletes continued to finish far up the track at the 10th World University Games on Sunday.

Canadian track athletes failed to qualify in four final events and those in three finals finished far back of the medal winners.

Canada did manage to pickup a bronze medal in the pool — its second of the Games — when the women's 400-metre freestyle relay team finished behind the U.S. and the Netherlands. The U.S. won the event with a time of three minutes 56.75 seconds, the Netherlands was second in 3:59.16, followed by Canada in 4:01.15.

On the basketball court, Canada was eliminated from medal contention when they were beaten 86-76 by the U.S. The U.S. now advances to the semi-finals against Mexico.

Leo Rautins of Toronto led the Canadian team, which finished the tournament with a 4-2 record, with 23 points. Jay Triano of Niagara Falls, Ont., had 12 points for the Canadians.

In the pentathalon, Joanne Anderson of Saskatoon scored 877 points in the long jump and 668 in the 800 metres for a 3,928 total, far behind the Soviet Union's Katerina Smirnova who had a 4,437 total.

Both Sue Bradley of Toronto and Sharon Lane of Ancaster, Ont., failed to qualify for the finals of the women's 100-metre hurdles.

Anne Mackie-Morelli of Vancouver finished sixth in her 400 metre heat and missed the finals.

Margaret Brooksbank, of Huntsville, Ala., upset Annalies Maas of the Netherlands and won the women's 800-metre freestyle in 9:04.32. Susan Mason of Halifax finished fourth in 9:32.51.

Djan Madruga, Brazil, was clocked in 4:37.34 in the men's 400-metre individual medley. Cam Reid of Vancouver finished eighth.

Sheckter clinches world title

Times News Services

Jody Scheckter of South Africa clinched the world 1979 Formula One auto racing title Sunday by winning the Italian Grand Prix, just ahead of Gilles Villeneuve of Berthierville, Que.

The 28-year-old Scheckter and Villeneuve led the Ferrari team to a 1-2 triumph on its homeground at the Monza Autodrome before a partisan crowd of 110,000.

Swiss veteran Clay Regazzoni was third.

It was Scheckter's third Grand Prix win of the season and 10th of his career.

The South African covered the total 50 laps in one hour, 22 minutes, 00.22 seconds for an average speed of 212.18 kilometres an hour (131.84 miles an hour).

Scheckter appeared a certain winner of both the race and world title after France's Jacques Laffite halted his Ligier at the pits in the 42nd lap and withdrew because of engine trouble and brake failure.

He was second to Sheckter in the world standings before the race.

Villeneuve climbed to second place in the standings with 38 points, but was unable to threaten Scheckter's 51 points in the two remaining world races — the Grand Prix of Canada in Montreal on Sept. 30 and the United States East at Watkins Glen, N.Y.

Lots of green for this Gray

WOLVERHAMPTON, England (Reuter) — Scottish international striker Andy Gray became Britain's most expensive soccer player when he signed with Wolverhampton Wanderers from Aston Villa for $3.3 million.

Gray signed his transfer forms before 23,000 Wolverhampton fans just before the kickoff of its Saturday match with Crystal Palace.

The Gray deal eclipsed the shortlived previous British record transfer fee set recently when Wolverhampton sold midfielder Steve Daly to Manchester City in a deal for about $3 million.

Cronkite jolts applause meter at annual Emmy rites

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Carroll O'Connor won a fourth Emmy for his portrayal of cantankerous Archie Bunker on All in the Family, while guest stars from Taxi and The Incredible Hulk took other top acting honors in the Television Academy's annual awards.

President Carter, in a live broadcast from the White House Sunday night, paid tribute to three slain TV reporters during the show that lasted slightly more than 2½ hours, the shortest in years.

The audience at the Pasadena Centre reserved its biggest ovation for CBS anchorman Walter Cronkite who received the academy's Governor's award. Cronkite gently reminded them that TV entertainment, like news, had "done a pretty fair job, not good enough, but pretty fair."

Another favorite was 71-year-old Milton Berle, who was honored for his longtime contribution to television. In his acceptance speech Berle said he had only a single one-liner:

"I can't tell you what this means to me."

Taxi, in its first year on ABC, was named the outstanding comedy series. Lou Grant was named best drama series.

O'Connor's award was for best actor in a comedy series. Ruth Gordon won as best actress in a comedy series for a guest role on Taxi.

Ron Leibman, whose show Kaz was cancelled by CBS, was named best lead actor in a drama series.

Mariette Hartley won as best actress in a drama series for a guest appearance as the ill-fated bride of Bill Bixby on CBS's The Incredible Hulk.

ABC's Friendly Fire was named the best drama special, but its stars, Carol Burnett and Ned Beatty, lost the acting honors for the category to Bette Davis for CBS's Strangers: The Story of a Mother and Daughter and Peter Strauss for The Jericho Mile.

ABC's Roots II was selected as best limited series, but only Marlon Brando won in the acting category for best supporting player. Brando, who had refused an Oscar for his role in The Godfather in 1973, was not present.

CBS's Lou Grant, which led the nominations with 14, picked up only one additional Emmy — for writing.

The NBC miniseries Backstairs at the White House, with 11 nominations, won a single craft award.

ABC received 20 awards in all categories, including the craft awards presented Saturday night, NBC received 15, and CBS 13. Five Emmys went to PBS and three went to syndicated shows.

Carter paid tribute to NBC reporters Don Harris and Robert Brown who were killed in Guyana and to ABC reporter Bill Stewart, killed in Nicaragua.

*M*A*S*H*, which had received 10 nominations, picked up its only Emmy when star Alan Alda was named best writer for a comedy series.

Secret jet fighter report not shown to McKinnon

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Defence Minister Allan McKinnon has confirmed that he had not been shown the confidential government report assessing the negotiations taking place concerning the purchase of a new jet fighter.

The report was leaked to a free-lance defence writer last week and was a revelation of the one-sidedness of the negotiation process to date with the two fighters' manufacturers left on the former Liberal government's short list.

They are General Dynamics with its F-16 fighter and McDonnell-Douglas with its carrier based version of the F-18.

The minister said he had not seen the confidential report before it was publicized in the press last week. He added that he was not alone, that most of the senior staff members of his department had not seen it either.

He described it as a "working paper" that was compiled during the negotiations. He understood it had been circulated at the lower echelons in the department.

Meantime, a spokesman in the prime minister's office said this sort of thing was typical of what was happening in several departments. He said there appeared to be a tendency on the part of some bureaucrats to be "very selective" in the confidential documents they showed the members of the new cabinet.

There is growing concern that in some departments the bureaucrats are keeping confidential documents from the ministers and that practice could cause the government embarrassment once Parliament starts sitting next month.

The 100-page report implies that the $2.34 billion program to acquire a new fighter aircraft for Canada's forces was not very competitive. It appears to support criticism, voiced by McKinnon when he was the chief opposition critic in the house before the spring election, that the McDonnell Douglas F-18 was on the short list as a "straw men" to be used as a lever by the government in trying to get a better deal out of General Dynamics.

There were strong suggestions, before the Liberal government was defeated, that the General Dynamics F-16 would get the contract to supply the new fighter because of the amount of funds available to buy the required number of aircraft and because of the lower cost of the F-16.

Baha'is upbraid Khomeini

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian followers of the Baha'i religion have protested to the Ayatollah Khomeini against the destruction of their religious centre in Iran.

The Baha'is, the largest religious minority in Iran, also appealed for support to Prime Minister Joe Clark and Flora MacDonald, minister of external affairs.

The Iranian house of Bab, a place of pilgrimage ordained by the founder of the Baha'i Faith, Baha'u'llah, was systematically demolished Saturday by a crowd of more than 100 persons which included government officials.

3 axed; dad charged

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A 48-year-old father has been charged with three counts of first-degree murder following the axe killings of his children during the weekend.

Police said Fayez Bracks, an unemployed widower, was charged before a justice of the peace Saturday night after being arrested at his home in a low-income neighborhood early that morning.

Dead are his daughter Nawal, 14, and sons, Hissam, 20, and Chaker, 21.

Hissam was employed at a local laundry. His sister attended high school and his brother Chaker attended the University of Western Ontario.

Police, who seized a small axe at the scene, said the three died of severe head injuries.

Can halt baldness Finnish scientists say

LONDON — Two Finnish scientists said they have developed a scalp treatment that can halt baldness and even start new hair growing in many cases.

The scientists, who are putting the treatment on sale in the form of a solution, say that among volunteers who applied it to their scalp for 28 weeks, hair growth resumed in 60 per cent of the cases and hair loss decreased within four weeks.

The product contains a synthetic detergent, which clears away dead hairs and other dirt clogging the follicles — the tiny sacs in which hair grows.

Another ingredient, a compound, then sets in motion a process which allegedly results in the growth of new hair.

Haitian requests refuge

MONTREAL (CP) — A 31-year-old Haitian, expelled from his country earlier this month while working on a project financed by the Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA), has asked Canada to grant him political refugee status.

Frantz Voltaire, who holds a MA degree from the Montreal campus of the Universite du Quebec, said Haitians who return to their country after living abroad are often treated as scapegoats for the problems there.

Voltaire, who taught at Mexico City's National University from 1975 to 1977, said there was no hearing to decide on his expulsion from Haiti. He was simply taken to a prison and told by an army major that he was being expelled.

64M adults in U.S. branded as illiterate

NEW YORK (AP) — As many as 64 million adults in the United States lack the language skills to perform everyday tasks such as addressing an envelope — and federal literacy programs have made only a small dent in the problem, a new Ford Foundation study finds.

The startling illiteracy statistic cited by the study, Adult Illiteracy in the United States, released Sunday, is the result of a new, broader definition of illiteracy than a simple inability to read or write.

Carman St. John Hunter, who co-wrote the report with David Harman, said a person is literate only when he or she can read or write well enough to fill the requirements they see as necessary to their own lives.

Their report suggests that community-based programs would be more effective than existing federal programs in addressing the language problems of the hardcore cases who have trouble coping with traditional classroom settings.

Among several community-based programs the study singled out as possible models for future literacy efforts was the Barrio Education Project in San Antonio, which operates on the priciple that teaching literacy in Spanish has more value than English to its illiterate Hispanic-American clients.

Carolina Pena Rodriguez, executive director of the San Antonio project, said in a telephone interview that she agrees with another major conclusion of the Ford Foundation study: that literacy is not a cure-all for the economic and social problems of poor Americans.

"We never claim to be a force in changing the economic situation, but we can change how people see themselves," Ms. Rodriguez said.

Second spot goes to Victoria tenor

TORONTO (UPC) — Victoria tenor Richard Margison took second place and a $500 scholarship in the three-day National Competitive Music Festival that concluded Saturday.

Mezzo-soprano Irena Welhasch of Winnipeg was named the outstanding performer by an international panel of judges for her dazzling performance at the concluding concert of the festival.

Welhasch won a $1,000 scholarship as did five other first-place winners.

Also awarded scholarships were pianist Margaret Kapasi of Kingsville, Ont.; violinist Kathy Palyga of Regina; flautist Joanne Geerling of Toronto; trumpeter Gary Poole of Summerside, P.E.I.; and Trio Tirata made up of Ann McKeigan of Dartmouth, N.S., Donna-Claire McLeod and Cheri Rogers of Sackville, N.B.

Other $500 scholarships for finishing second went to pianist Deborah Weisner of Calgary, flautist Marina Piccinini of St. John's, tuba soloist David Squires of Toronto, and The Eclectic Brass, comprised of Susan Barber, Nancy Gildner, Diane Fair, Susan Dustan and Richard Jatiouk, of Toronto.

Third-place winners earning $250 scholarships were soprano Shari Leigh Saunders of Fredericton, pianist Rena Ling of Vancouver, violinist Ann Elliott of Sackville, clarinetist John Newman of Lacombe, Alta., euphonium soloist Clarence D. White of Corner Brook, Nfld., and the Montgomery-Van der Sloot Trio of Glen Montgomery, William and Henry Van der Sloot, of Medicine Hat, Alta.

Bank rates hit 13% record high recovery in investment going on and it is not necessarily the companies which assume the cost — they pass it along to consumers."

Consumer spending will be hardest hit, especially credit to buy durables such as automobiles, he said.

The banks were under no legal complusion to follow suit when the Bank of Canada boosts the bank rate — the interest rate it would charge them if they came to it for money. (The banks almost never do this).

But every bank rate change in recent memory has been followed within one or two days by a corresponding movement in chartered bank prime rates.

The bank rate stood at 7.5 per cent at the beginning of 1978 and by November it had risen to 10.75 per cent. In January, the rate was increased to 11.25 per cent and in July to 11.75 per cent.

As automatic as this may seem, bankers, market analysts and economists are undoubtedly taking a hard second-look at the government's decision to raise interest rates at a time when Canadians were already paying record amounts to borrow money.

Some will find the timing of Finance Minister John Crosbie's decision puzzling.

Normally the bank rate is raised when the dollar is losing ground on international currency markets. But Friday, the dollar — spurred by encouraging reports of what may be a major oil and gas find in the Beaufort Sea — gained ground against other currencies. It closed at 85.77 cents U.S., its best showing in more than two weeks.

Man dies in copter crash

A Saskatchewan man was killed instantly when his helicopter crashed about 5:15 p.m. Sunday 48 kilometres northwest of Port Alberni.

An investigation was being carried out today into the death of Joseph Kreke of North Battleford, who was flying a helicopter belonging to Apex Helicopters of that city.

The helicopter was engaged in logging operations for the A.V. Shake and Shingle Company of Port Alberni.

Supreme Court limping?

OTTAWA (CP) — Unsettled describes the state of affairs as the Supreme Court of Canada prepares for its fall session opening Oct. 2.

With just three weeks to go before the high court starts another round of appeals, there has yet to be named a replacement for Mr. Justice Yves Pratte who resigned for health reasons earlier this year.

But more serious is the health of 67-year-old Chief Justice Bora Laskin. Heart ailments have had a noticeable effect on Laskin and news of his abdominal surgery in Vancouver in late August was a better-kept secret than some of the judicial decisions the court makes.

And a spokesman for Justice Affairs Minister Jacques Flynn said the minister wasn't aware of the operations until informed by a reporter Monday.

The spokesman said a replacement for Mr. Justice Pratte will be named "in a few weeks," certainly before the court reopens.

He said that should present no great hardship for the Supreme Court justices.

But the uncertainty of the health of the Chief Justice is another matter entirely. It brings up the question of a successor to Laskin and whether the top job at the court would be filled by a judge already on the bench or a newcomer.

There have been reports that Mr. Justice Jules Deschens of the high court of Quebec is being wooed, not only as replacement for Mr. Justice Pratte but also as chief justice in Ottawa.

Misinformation in government booklet

Misleading data leaves U.K. pair with only 25% of full pension

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

A 56-year-old immigrant from England who says he was brought to Canada under false pretences wants the government to compensate him for the $8,000 the move has cost him.

Robin Trevallion of 1-1334 Pandora said in an interview the Canadian immigration office in London misinformed him about his right to claim a pension when he turns 65.

He said he came to Canada in August, 1978, with the understanding he'd be eligible for a Canada pension after 10 years in this country.

The information was contained in a 159-page booklet, Introduction to Canada, which he received following his final interview with immigration officials in December, 1977.

He had been told everything he needed to know about going to Canada was contained in the booklet.

However, he said, a few months after arriving in Victoria, where he works as a machinist with Scott's Plastics, he learned the Old Age Security residency requirements had been amended on July 1, 1977.

The amendment, which was not incorporated into the booklet, requires immigrants to have lived in Canada 40 years before they are entitled to the full pension. It sets out a pension formula based on one-fortieth part for each year an immigrant resides in Canada to a minimum of 10 years.

Trevallion discovered he would be entitled to only one-quarter of the pension, not the full amount as he had expected.

"If I had known that, I would never have bothered emigrating," he said.

As it was, he and his wife sold their house in Cornwall, auctioned off most of their belongings and moved to Victoria with the hopes of spending the rest of their days here.

He said he spent four years hunting for a job in Canada before finally landing one. The guarantee of employment is a necessary ingredient in applying for immigration.

"It's pointless now to remain," he said. "We could never live on the pension. The only sensible thing to do is return to Britain."

He said it cost him about $6,000 to emigrate here, taking into account solicitor's fees in selling their home, the auction agent's fee, the cost of medical examinations, packing expenses and air fares.

Another $2,000 will be spent in resettling in England, he said.

"We wouldn't have got into this mess if the government agency hadn't misinformed us. We were brought here under a false pretence.

"I think the least the government can do is compensate us for our costs."

Trevallion said he sought help from Victoria MP Allan McKinnon last fall.

He said McKinnon applied on his behalf to Monique Begin, then minister of health, for an exemption from the residency requirement.

Begin turned down the request saying nothing could be done; the law was the law and she had no authority to change it.

In a letter to Trevallion in December she said it was "unfortunate" he had received a pamphlet that didn't reflect the changes in the law. She said a new edition containing the amendment was being printed and would soon be available.

"He (McKinnon) said at the time he thought we were being ill-used by the government," Travallion said.

After the May federal election Travallion approached McKinnon again, hoping the new government would redress the situation.

But McKinnon, responding in a letter Aug. 23, stated that "while Health Minister David Crombie gave the most sympathetic consideration possible . . . the fact is we can't change the law and must adhere to the regulation. The minister has no power to make any exceptions."

Trevallion said he can accept the law but not the government's neglect in advising immigrants of the changes made to it.

He said he noticed copies of the same edition of the Introduction to Canada booklet he was given in London are being handed out by the immigration office in Victoria.

The Times learned the same is true at immigration offices at White Rock and the Vancouver International Airport.

An immigration spokesman at the airport said a large shipment of the booklets was sent from regional headquarters in May with instructions to hand them out to every immigrant and refugee arriving at Vancouver.

He said he knew the booklet was outdated—it was printed in 1976—but didn't realize the section on residency requirements for pensions was erroneous.

He said he wasn't aware of the changes made to the regulations 26 months ago.

"Gee, thanks for telling us," he said.

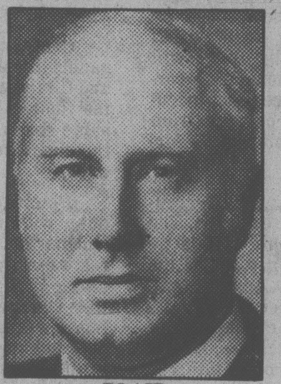
Tourist grant balloon draws Esquimalt fire

An Esquimalt alderman reacted angrily today to a report that municipalities will be asked for significantly larger grants for tourist promotion work.

Victoria Visitors Information Centre president Ed Higgin said Saturday municipalities will be asked to match private enterprise, dollar for dollar.

Ald. Colin Blair, Esquimalt council's representative to the Victoria Information Centre, said Higgin should be reminded that the municipalities don't have a money tree.

"We have no funds other than what's raised from the taxpayer," said Blair. "Therefore, what Mr. Higgin is saying is that a person living in Esquimalt, possibly on a fixed pension, should be asked to subsidize multinational corporate giants such as Canadian Pacific, who are big in the Victoria tourist industry."



BLAIR
. . . taxes lining pockets?

He suggested that municipalities should consider withdrawing their representatives to the centre's board of directors, as the proposal to ask the municipalities for more money had not been discussed by the board.

Pointing to Victoria's record tourism income this year, Blair said little of the bonanza ended up in Esquimalt's municipal coffers.

"It should be remembered that municipal taxes were established to provide such basic necessities as sewers, roads and police and fire services."

He said many of his constituents have suggested it was time for the municipality "to start looking at cutting some of these frills and getting back to the basics."

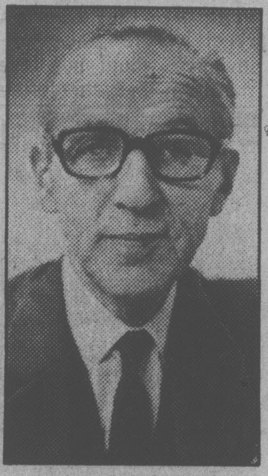
Blair said the centre has gone far beyond being simply a visitors information centre. "It is now a tourism promotion agency, spending a considerable portion of its budget on advertising in American magazines," he said.

"I don't believe the municipal taxpayer should be required to pay for advertising to bring visitors here to line the pockets of those involved in the tourist trade."

Blair also wondered what happened to the board's democratic principles.

"There's a board of directors, which includes municipal representatives," he said. "The proposal to hit municipalities for more funds has not been put before this board and would appear to be a one-man decision.

"If this is the way it's going to be run, I would suggest that municipalities should consider withdrawing their representatives."



WARD-HARRIS
. . . "objective look"

Book aid survey

E.D. Ward-Harris of Saanich has been appointed to undertake a special study into the financial needs of B.C. book publishers.

A spokesman in Provincial Secretary Hugh Curtis' office said today Ward-Harris will study the problems of the industry and make recommendations to the minister on what kind of provincial aid the publishers need.

"The minister knows Ward-Harris is interested in the publishing business and he feels he can take an objective look at it because he's not involved himself," he said.

Employees at BCBC vote strike

Employees of the B.C. Buildings Crown corporation voted 96.6 per cent to strike in a vote taken last week the B.C. Government Employees Union announced today.

Union general secretary John Fryer said the government-supervised vote among the 1,150 staffers puts the union in a legal position to serve 72 hours strike notice.

He gave no indication if or when that notice would be served, however, saying only that the mandate is a strong one and the union is "developing a strategy to put it to work."

BCGEU Victoria staff representative said there are numerous issues that were failed to be resolved, not the least of which is wages.

There are between 200 and 250 BCBC employees in the Victoria area.

Voting took place all last week in BCBC offices throughout the province. Balloting was supervised by the Labor Relations Board.

Meanwhile a strike vote is being conducted this week among the employees of the B.C. Systems Corporation.

Talks between the corporation and the BCGEU broke off Friday.

The BCGEU wants three-year contracts increasing at eight per cent a year for both BCBC and B.C. Systems employees.

Management in B.C. Systems would not budge from its initial offer of a 4½ per cent increase in each year of a two-year contract.

And BCBC management's last offer before talks broke off was six per cent, six per cent and three per cent.

Jewelry store robbed

Thieves smashed both front windows of Rose's Jewellers, 1317 Douglas, early today and made off with several wrist watches, pocket watches and charms.

Saanich police reported juveniles broke into the A&M Grocery, 77 Sims, about 8:30 Sunday night. Cigarettes and chocolate bars were recovered near the scene and anyone with information is asked to call police.

Saturday night, vandals did $900 worth of damage to Colquitz School. The building and a canoe in an inside compound were damaged.

There were also break-ins Sunday night at the Victoria West Community Centre and Turner's Coffee Shop, 1909 Birch.

A juvenile has been charged in connection with the community centre break-in.

Two juveniles have also been charged by Sidney RCMP with breaking and entering and wilful damage. Windows were shot out in a house and a hydro property at Durrance Lake. Central Saanich RCMP have charged the same two with auto theft.

Police stroll city pubs

A new Victoria police program aimed at discouraging drunkenness and serving of liquor to minors in city pubs is working well, Chief Jack Gregory said today.

Regular patrolmen are taking swings through drinking establishments and reporting what they see—good or bad—to the Liquor Licensing Office.

Gregory said the program stems from concern about an increase in vandalism, drunken driving, and assaults.

"It's a method of crime prevention. We took a look at the problems and decided that liquor was at the root of them," said Gregory.

The officers are watching to see that minors are not served and that intoxicated people are refused further drinks.

They contact the manager about shortcomings and submit a report to the licensing branch.

Gregory hopes the branch will take appropriate action stemming from the reports.

He said the Victoria branch of the B.C. Hotelman's Association has welcomed the new program.

Morton retiring

Ken Morton is retiring as B.C.'s chief electoral officer.

Morton, 63, who has supervised every provincial election since 1968, was injured in a fall this summer and has been making a slow recovery. A cabinet order released today terminates his appointment as of Oct. 1.

There is no urgent need to find a replacement as another provincial election is not likely for at least two years.

And this is the noblest bird of all?

THE BALD EAGLE IS ON the threatened species list in the United States, but up here in the Campbell River country, Old Whitey with the snow-capped dome, the fearsome talons and the formidable beak is one of life's commonplaces.

So familiar are we with the spectacle of an eagle or a family of eagles lording it on beach rocks or in a spruce top that we spare them scarce a second glance.

Aloft, riding the air currents effortlessly on wide bar wings, there's no bird so noble. But when the bald eagle conducts its affairs at ground level, it frequently borders on the ridiculous. The sight of a hulking great bird clumsily stalking the tide's edge in search of such edibles as may have been uncovered is less than inspiring.

Nor is the eagle's voice what one would expect of the King of the Air. Instead of a full-throated scream, what one hears is a peevish squeak.

The best eagle story I know involves one of the nature interpreters down at Miracle Beach Park, and a tourist audience which had gathered in the tree-ringed park amphitheatre to hear a wildlife talk.

"I'd been holding forth on eagles," says the girl naturalist, "when all of a sudden there was this terrific crack overhead, and a dead limb tumbled down.

"Then the eagle that had been sitting asleep on the branch when it broke dropped in on us. It had a wing-spread of almost seven feet, and it put on the brakes right over our heads."

The nature lecturer couldn't have asked for a more striking illustration.

Tourists! We have completed another summer of them in full swarm, their campers, motor-homes and trailers jamming the highway and filling the campgrounds.

Any morning that we cared to look out from our seaward-fronting windows, we saw tourists with rumps in air, excavating for clams in all the wrong places. They kept the cash registers jingling in Campbell River stores, and haunted the various little marinas spotted along the waterfront.

We'd come in from fishing the other evening with a handsome coho salmon in the baby-bath which does duty for a fish-box.

"Oh!" she said. "So that's what a fish looks like!"

The artless remark left us dazed for a moment. Then Win ran off a hasty mental review of deep-inland climes where fish might conceivably be rare.

"Are you from Alberta?" Win asked.

The tourist gave a quick affirmative nod.

"How did you know?" she asked.

She touched the coho gingerly, then turned away, leaving us with an unanswered question.

Was she indulging in a bit of leg-pulling, or had she actually never seen a fish before?

Speaking of Alberta, we have a daughter in that interior province who did most of her growing up here on the British Columbia coast. Sometimes she yearns for the boats and salt water which were so much a part of her childhood that she took both for granted.

A while ago, prodded by nostalgia, she ran off a paper of verses, which with her permission, I pass on to you. At the risk of seeming an over-proud dad, I think they catch the spirit of the exile better than most.

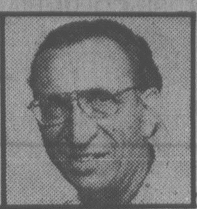
A WATER-COOLED engine probably would have worked fine in Saturday's rain but this particular model is air-cooled. It's a 1914 Franklin, one of 100 vintage cars that took part in the annual Malahat Challenge for pre-1916 automobiles. Some 350 participants from Canada and the U.S. were involved in the rally which started in Nanaimo and ended at the Legislative Buildings. Murray Gammon of Victoria, one of the rally organizers, said all entries completed the test. A corn roast and visit to the Classic Car Museum Sunday completed the weekend. Admiring the Franklin is 11-year-old Shelley Hulko, 4924 Lemaire, whose family owns a 1932 model A Ford roadster, too recent a model to officially take part. (Alex Barta photo).

Scribe also has aging pains



Leslie Holbrook

the fourth quarter

"You do a stimulating column. Are you also retired?" writes E.F.R., Oshawa.

"Wait until you are 74 and have old folks' loneliness, pains and problems, then you'll write very different articles," prophesies Mrs. G. L., Surrey, B.C.

Picked from this week's mail these letters — one patting me on the back, the other taking me to task for my Pollyanna pennings — suggest that I am a rather young fellow sounding off on senior subjects.

The second writer didn't think much of some earlier advice I had given her (to get involved in a seniors' club) and implied that I should write for my own age group until I really know what it is like to be into the senior years.

Let me say once again that I'm well on my way to 70, have aging pains and problems too, and have spent nine years researching and writing in the fields of gerontology and geriatrics.

"How can you help people in the West if you are writing in the East?" another reader asks. First of all, I travel coast to coast interviewing experts in areas of interest to older folk. I also do research in other countries.

Right now I am preparing to participate in annual sessions of United Senior Citizens of Ontario, then to interview a doctor on the hazards of aging and protective measures to take, then to investigate a successful program involving seniors and high school students, then to examine the advantages and disadvantages of moving in to live with a relative and so on ———.

In September, I go to a conference on "Aging in Canada: Myths and Realities", then on to Moncton, N.B., for the 1979 convention of National Pensioners and Senior Citizens Federation (I was active at their 1978 convention in Vancouver).

I see also considerable mail stimulated by my June column which the Globe and Mail titled "Let's hope Clark keeps promises". One of the promises noted in that column was to amend Old Age Security legislation to ensure "that a person receiving the spouse's allowance would not lose that allowance should the older spouse die". I suggested that you clip and mail that column to your newly elected MP; some of you did.

Here's part of the reply that Mrs. J.G.H. received from John Bosley, MP (Don Valley West): "I am very hopeful that we will be introducing the promised amendments, particularly with regard to the spouse's allowance, as early as possible when the House resumes in the fall."

An Ottawa revision pending when the PCs took over was elimination of the term "old age" from Old Age Security legislation. Many of you sent me suggestions for a name change; but not all agreed. Listen:

"The term 'old age' is simple and honest; I'm bothered by the fatuous use of euphemisms like senior citizen, golden age and elderly." — E.K.

"How come people are squeamish about words which tell it like it is? Old is old no matter what word is used." — Mrs. G.R.

Low-hung cafe curtains, plants offset lack of intimacy

How to give room 'greenhouse look'

By PAULINE GRAVES

Large, multipurpose rooms, mega rooms, if you will, have been one of the big trends in the 70s, and housing experts predict that the trend will continue. Several functions are incorporated in the one space, each occupying a specific area, separation from the other areas accomplished by furniture or location.

Such an arrangement, by decorator Marvyn Barnett, is seen here. The small breakfast grouping stands by the kitchen, which is just out of the picture on the right. A "bump out" extends the wall five feet out from its original location and creates more space for the table and chairs. Above, a sloping shed ceiling, of re-inforced glass, supported by 2"x4" rafters, gives a garden, greenhouse look to the space, and shows how the room was widened.

Continuing the garden look, glass panels line up with those in the ceiling and fill the wall down to 15-inches from the floor. All of this glass makes the same space seem larger, and lightens the entire room beyond the breakfast area.

Placing the table against the window, with two chairs on each side, widens the space between the breakfast area and the kitchen, allowing for ample traffic movement, much better than centering the table and surrounding it with the chairs. Lots of plants, both hanging and on the floor, flourish in the good light and add their greenery to the greenhouse atmosphere.

Widow role resented

TORONTO (CP) — Women who suffer the most from widowhood have difficulty accepting the reality of their husband's death, resent the role of widow and can't seem to establish a new identity, a recent study by a Toronto sociologist says.

Mary Vachon of York University said in an interview, "These women usually had poor ties with the members of their social networks and did little to establish new relationships."

"In addition, they often had health problems that complicated their adaptation to bereavement."

Ms. Vachon said these women suffer from what is described as high distress.

"The death of a husband is a major life event that will be experienced by three out of four North American wives," she said. "Although widowhood is commonly thought to be a problem of old age, statistics show that the average age at widowhood is 56.

Ms. Vachon said that the average widow can expect to remain widowed for the remainder of her life — about 19.5 years.

"More than a third of Canadian widows are under 65."

The one-in-three widows who suffer relatively little distress over the bereavement may have had a poor marriage or had adjusted to the impending death of the husband over a long illness, she said.

Some of these women were in closed social networks of family and female friends and quickly adopted a traditional widow role that caused little change in their identity or social relationships.

'Sex Machine' a hit with many readers

Dear Abby

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Please tell EXHAUSTED IN HONOLULU — the 63-year-old wife who complained that her 58-year-old husband of only five months was an "absolute sex machine" and that his demands were exhausting — to send him out my way.

I live in Waipahu, Hawaii, and I would certainly appreciate a man with his drive.

My husband of 37 years doesn't believe in romantic buildups, candlelight dinners or wine. Just "Boom!" (And his "booms" came about as often as World Wars!)

Just tell EXHAUSTED to put her husband in a car and drive down Waipahu Street and I'll be waiting for him along with my two little ones — one kid from each World War! — WAITING IN WAIPAHU

DEAR WAITING: Although your offer was one of the first, I received many. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: This is for EXHAUSTED IN HONOLULU: Our bridge club of three tables meets every Thursday. We are between 40 and 75 years old. We would be very happy to help this woman solve her problem by offering our assistance on an odd-even basis every day except Thursday, our club day.

Each of us could rotate on eight-hour shifts, or be available four days on and four days off — like firemen.

We all lead very active lives but can manage most any schedule to help a sister in distress.

Bless that poor unfulfilled man. He's only 58. May he have many more happy years and die with a smile on his face. Sign us — LAKKA-LUVA-WAUNNA-MANNA

DEAR ABBY: EXHAUSTED IN HONOLULU should be married to my husband. He's a nice-looking man, 49, and he's been too tired for lovemakeing for as long as I can remember. But he's not too tired to play tennis, jog, ski cross-country, and disco-dance by the hour.

We sleep in a king-size bed and he stays as far away from me as he can get without falling off the edge. I'm 45, neat and clean, have a nice figure and not obnoxious in any way.

Tell EXHAUSTED she would love this guy. I can guarantee that he won't bother her from one year to the next. And if her husband wants to meet a woman who wouldn't mind being bothered night and day, I'll be glad to send him plane fare. — HUNGRY FOR LOVE

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for printing that letter from EXHAUSED IN HONOLULU. Her letter made my day. At last an honest woman who isn't ashamed to admit that she could do with a lot less sex than her husband. I thought I was the only woman in the world who felt that way.

I'm a widow, but when my husband was living I thought sex was one of the most overrated things in the world. What a lot of mess and bother for something that lasts 10 seconds!

If EXHAUSTED would like to meet a 64-year-old woman who shares her love for Hawaiian music and island flowers, please give her may address. I live in Hilo, and we have a lot in common. — NO LONGER EXHAUSTED

DEAR ABBY: I used to think you made up some of the letters in your column. I just couldn't believe that people could be so dumb. Now here I am, with a problem so unreal it sounds like a soap opera plot. I am 23 and have been married for five weeks to Joe, a swell guy I've known for a year. This is my second marriage. I have three small children.

Joe never mentioned that he had been married before. Now I find out that he has been married twice and has five kids! His mother is taking care of them. I found out only yesterday and I am ready for a nervous breakdown. When I told Joe I knew about the five kids, he said he was relieved since he didn't know how much longer he could keep it from me — and, as long as I knew, would I mind taking his five kids to raise since his mother was in very poor health!

Abby, I'm a night-shift waitress. I have enough with my own three. I can't raise eight kids. All the love I had for Joe is dead. Do I have grounds for divorce?

SHOCKED

DEAR SHOCKED: Talk to a lawyer. You might even have grounds for an annulment.

WHEELS

by Mike Lamm

Let's throw some light on Blinkey's dilemma

DEAR MIKE: For th past three years, I've had a strange problem with the headlights of my 1966 Lincoln. Makes no difference whether they're on high or low beam. At night, at odd intervals, the lights will flash on and off intermittently. I then have to pull over to the side of the street and park for about 10 minutes. After that, everything will be all right for another 10-15 minutes. No mechanic has been able to trace the problem. Perhaps you can point me in the right direction. — BLINKY.

DEAR BLINKY: Sounds like a bad connection or ground that heats up and then loses contact. Next time your headlights act up, go around and see if you can feel heat at any wire terminals having to do with the lighting system. Be sure to feel at the dimmer switch and the dashboard switch as well as at all contacts and relays near the lamp units themselves.

DEAR MIKE: My 1967 Chevy II is practically in mint condition, but whenever I put on the brakes, the car makeks a creaky, raspy sound — like a tight belt slipping on a dry pulley. The brakes check out fine. This noise is not in the body — it comes from underneath. Any thoughts? — CREAKY.

DEAR CREAKY: Yes — it's most likely in the front suspension: worn rubber bushings in the strut rods. Have a good front-end shop check. Worn bushings can cause accelerated tire wear and might eventually become dangerous.

DEAR MIKE: I have a 1978 Dodge mini motorhome. This vehicle weighs 7100 pounds and has the 400-cid V-8. I would like to replace the gasoline engine with a diesel. Could you give me some details on what make of engine to use and the approximate cost of such a conversion? — GOING DIESEL.

DEAR GOING: I've seen only one similar conversion. This involved a GMC V-6 diesel in a 1½-ton pickup. The owner did most of the work, and even at that it cost him about $2000 for the used engine, adapter, and associated items — excluding labor. So I'd say you're talking about a $500-plus job, and I doubt that you'll find the conversion worth the money and effort. I suggest you look into converting your mini motorhome to propane instead of diesel, but only if you'll put a lot of miles on it. Even at that, the conversion isn't cheap. Be sure you get all the prices beforehand. Then add 20% for "incidentals," and finally compare projected before-and-after mileages and resale values.

Tots start speaking when ready

YOUR HEALTH

by L. L. Coleman, MD

Our second child is two years and two months old, and she is unable to speak as well as our first child did at that age. Even though we've been assured that there is nothing wrong we would like to explore every avenue of help that would benefit her. — Mrs. F.L.

Dear Mrs. L.:

It is understandable that you should be distressed, even though you have been assured that there is no intrinsic disease to account for this problem. Parents have a tendency to compare the achievement of the second child with the achievement of the first.

Even though patience has been recommended, the buildup of anxiety can occur. It is remarkable that children, even at the age of two, are highly receptive to that anxiety and they quickly get the feeling that they are not pleasing you, and they, too, become anxious. The cycle then is set and their own anxiety (yes, indeed, 2-year-olds can become anxious) can be a factor in delaying normal speech patterns.

Language development is often a difficult thing to assess in a young child. Patterns of speech vary enormously in normal children. Many do not begin to speak until the age of three; then, suddenly, may begin to speak in total sentences.

Many techniques have been devised to measure speech development. Hearing and speech centres at schools, universities and medical schools are equipped with highly technical tests for the diagnosis of speech impairment.

When all physical conditions, especially deafness, have been ruled out, a planned program by a speech therapist might be beneficial to you and your child. You, particularly, will be given the feeling that something is actively being done and it will fortify you during this "patient" waiting period.

What is the best way to handle a blister when it forms after a burn? — Mrs. T.S.

Dear Mrs. S.:

The skin covering of a blister is excellent protection against infection and is best left alone for safety reasons. If the blister is large and filled with fluid, gently wash the edges and apply a mild antiseptic. With the sterilized tip of a needle, carefully puncture the blister at its outer edge. Gently press the fluid out and cover the blister with a sterile bandage or sterile gauze.

Busing issue to board

SHAWNIGAN LAKE — A move by parents to keep their children from attending classes at the new Discovery elementary school has fizzled out but a delegation plans to meet tonight with the school board.

The parents want the children bused to school along Renfrew road because they claim it is unsafe for walking.

A threat to block Renfrew to all traffic was withdrawn last week when the parents decided to form safety patrols.

The first day of protest last Wednesday resulted in 25 absentees among nearly 140 students enrolled at the school. By Thursday the absentee rate had dropped to 14 and there were only four pupils absent Friday.

Protest leader Jeanette Fujita said she and other parents would continue to keep their children out of class until a delegation of parents attends tonight's regular school board meeting.

Schools superintendent Bill Marshall said the board plans no legal action even though parents are liable to fines of $10 each day they keep their children from class. He said it isn't normal to take action under section 121 of the Public Schools Act unless such boycotts continue over a prolonged period.

Hearing Tests Set for Victoria

(Victoria) — Electronic hearing tests will be given at Beltone Hearing Aid Service, 613 Yates Street, during a free Service Centre open to all hearing aid wearers. The tests will be given on Monday and Tuesday September 10 and 11 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. by Ronald Germain, Beltone Hearing Aid Specialist.

Anyone who has trouble hearing is welcome to have this special test using the latest electronic equipment. For those who now wear an aid, the test will show if it is still right for their loss. Others will learn which aid may be right for them.

Most people with a hearing loss can be helped with a hearing aid. Everyone who has trouble hearing, therefore should have a test.

The tests will be given from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. during this special Service Centre on Monday and Tuesday, September 10 and 11. Please call ahead for an appointment.

LRB ruling appealed

NANAIMO — A dredging firm caught in a labor dispute halting work at the Duke Point industrial site since July 17 plans to fight a Labor Relations Board ruling allowing its employees to remain on strike.

The firm will appeal a decision Aug. 29 allowing B.C. and Yukon Building Trades council members to refuse work with members of the rival International Woodworkers of America, Grant Spitz, director of personnel for the Dillingham Corp. of Canada Ltd., said.

A clause in the building trades union contract says council members can refuse to work with non-union employees or members of a union not affiliated with their group.

Spitz said his company had argued that the section, called a non-affiliation-clause, was not applicable in the case of a first drop of materials at a construction site.

The building trades members were hired by the company to deliver sand from a floating dredge pipeline but the employees walked out because of the presence on the site of IWA tradesmen who are building the only sawmill now committed to the project.

They joined 100 other building trades members employed by another firm to clear and level the site. About one-third of the work was completed before that walkout occurred.

The building trades council argues that the IWA has been intruding into its jurisdiction and negotiating contracts that allow longer hours and fewer benefits than their own agreements.

The LRB also dealt with a similar complaint from Hub City Paving and ruled that truck drivers employed by the company, members of Teamsters' Union Local 213, could not invoke their non-affiliation clause and must resume gravel deliveries to Duke Point.

The board has promised further explanation of its decisions.

Queen refit tenders out

The B.C. Ferry Corp. over the weekend called for tenders for the conversion of the Queen of Surrey that will finally see her pressed into service after five years of idleness.

Once the conversion is completed, the former Swedish cruise ship will be placed on the Port Hardy-Prince Rupert run.

The Queen of Prince Rupert in turn will be switched over to serve the Queen Charlotte Islands.

The Queen of Surrey was bought for $14 million by the former NDP government. It was designed to become part of the growing ferry fleet, but was never used.

Tenders will be opened Oct. 15.

Ferry negotiations continuing today

VANCOUVER (CP) — Talks were continuing today between the B.C. Ferry Corp. and the B.C. Ferry and Marine Workers Union in an effort to reach a contract with 2,600 workers.

The talks are being overseen by Clive McKee, appointed by Labor Minister Allan Williams as a one-man industrial inquiry commission.

The union has been in a legal position to strike since mediator Fred Geddes reported out.

On Thursday, some union members set up picket lines, shutting down ferry operations between Horseshoe Bay, Departure Bay and Langdale. The strike was considered illegal because Geddes had not officially reported out of the dispute.

Under the Essential Services Disputes Act, if a strike or lockout occurs the provincial government has the power to order the workers back on the job and impose a 90-day cooling-off period and if no settlement is reached, submit the dispute to binding arbitration.

The bidding:

Opening lead — jack of spades.

Bridge is not played perfectly by anyone, and the best proof of this comes directly from the annual world championship. Consider the present deal from the match between Italy and the United States in 1975.

At the first table, the Italian pair, Garozzo and Belladonna, got to five diamonds on the sequence shown. Probably West should have reasoned from the bidding that East had either one or no clubs, and on that basis should have led the ace of clubs. But West led the jack of spades instead.

Belladonna won with the ace and guessed the trump finesse correctly when he played a low diamond to the ten at trick two. Had he continued with trumps at this point he would have made the contract easily.

But Belladonna thought the trumps might be divided 4-1 and, in an effort to protect against this possibility, he led a low club from dummy at trick three! This was certainly not the best play under the circumstances, as he found out when East, Eddie Kantar, trumped the club, on which West played the four.

Kantar did not know that his partner had the ace of clubs and that all he had to do was cash his heart trick. Instead, acting on the assumption that South had the ace of clubs and hoping that West had the queen of hearts, Kantar led the deuce of hearts at trick four! He was trying to get another club ruff and thus defeat the contract.

Kantar's low heart return would have been sensationally successful had the cards been divided as he hoped they were. But Belladonna went up with the queen of hearts and easily made the contract.

FUN WITH FIGURES

By J. A. H. HUNTER

Ted had been watching as Sally played with her marbles. "You've got a lot of blues," he said. "Just one third of them are that color."

"Very methodical." Ted laughed. "So that leaves you just thirteen others and they're all yellow."

How many marbles did she have there?

CITY WATCHDOG RICHARDS
Congratulations to Cable 10 on their cablevision coverage of Victoria City Council's Group "B" Committee meeting which was held on September 4th at City Hall. It was most interesting listening to the various members of the Group "B" Committee kick around suitable names which were suggested by our City Archivist in the vicinity of Terrace Avenue and many other suggested names such as Diefenbaker. Place by Alderman McElroy was ruled out because it was said it would possibly offend some Liberals. It was finally decided upon to call it "Mountbatten Place". Answer to question #6. It appears that all Victoria City Police cars whether marked or unmarked have licence plates starting around EDV 088 and run consecutively to over EDV 100 and thereetore you can detect that the Dodge Aspen with EDV 099 along with other unmarked cars in the series are police cars. If you wish further information please write to Your City's Watchdog, C. Joe Richards, PO Box 154, phone 383-6259. Seen in Passing: Mr. Reg Garton of Vancouver agreeing with Your City's Watchdog last Thursday evening in Centennial Square at approx. 7pm for visitors and citizens of Victoria to witness the disgraceful events that took place because of the absence of police footpatrols.

WOULD LIKE TO MEET AN ATTRACTIVE, unattached, quiet sensitive nonsmoking girl, midtwenties, who is intelligent, possess a good sense of humour, and takes pride in her personal appearance and physical condition. I'm a gentle person, reasonably attractive. University educated, and in late twenties. I avoid loud aggresive people and am not overly concerned with money. I prefer quiet moments engaged in constructive conversation to wild parties, excessive drinking and dancing. I believe in the philosophy of deserada and teachings of the Bible but am not a fanatical evangelist or church goer. I no longer believe in pre-martial sex and don't wish to date anyone with an overly promiscuous past, but realize we all make mistakes which can build character. I believe a relationship should be based on mutual love, trust, and respect and problems should be quietly discussed. If you would like to date a person who possess these qualities, please send a photo, honest letter and address to Victoria Press Box 197. I will send you same, and if agreeable we will meet for dinner. Matrimony eventual object if compatable.

309 IN MEMORIAM

FALCONER - In loving memory of our beloved husband and father, Robert (Bucky) who passed away September 10th, 1978.

The Fisherman's Prayer
God grant that I may live
To fish until my dying day,
And when it comes to my last cast
I then most humbly pray.
When in the Lord's safe landing net and peacefully asleep,
That in His mercy I may be judged as "good enough" to keep.
If all the world were ours to give
We'd give, yes and more
To see the face we love so well
Come smiling through the door.

THEY SHALL GROW NOT OLD AS WE WHO ARE LEFT GROW OLD, AGE SHALL NOT WEARY THEM, NOR THE YEARS CONDEMN, AT THE GOING DOWN OF THE SUN, AND IN THE MORNING, WE WILL REMEMBER THEM.
WITH GRATITUDE, SANDS

The Lord is my Shepherd
I shall not want
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures
He leadeth me beside the still waters
He restoreth my soul
He leadeth me in the path of righteousness for his name sake
Yea though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death
I will fear no evil
For thou art with me, thy rod and thy staff they comfort me
Thou anointest my head with oil
My cup runneth over
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life and I will dwell in the House of the Lord forever.

Cellu-fibre reins eyed: Paper

MONTREAL (CP) — The federal department of consumer affairs is considering classifying cellulose fibre, a widely-used home insulation material, under the Hazardous Products Acts to allow authorities to prosecute sellers, advertisers and importers of substandard insulation, according to the Montreal Star.

The newspaper says a confidential report indicates that some batches of the insulation are being manufactured with less fire retardant than recommended by the Canadian government specifications board.

The standards set out by the specifications board are not enforced by law, but are used, along with the results of further testing, by the Canada Housing and Mortgage Corp. in the issuing of "acceptance numbers for insulation that meet CMHC criteria, The Star says.

At least one insulation supplier in Montreal, Val Royal, has stopped restocking cellulose fibre insulation because it fears the federal government could stop approving all grades of the insulation.

In Victoria, a spokesman for Cubbon's building supplies said the type of cellulose fibre insulation they sell — Weather Wedge, made by PNW Fibretex Insulation Industries of Langley — has a CMHC acceptance number, meaning the federal agency has tested and approved the product as meeting their specifications.

Fibretex salesman Bill Olson said all four major manufacturers of the material in B.C. adhere to CMHC standards. Theoretically, it is possible for someone to make and sell cellulose fibre insulation of a lower quality.

Now the standards apply only to insulation used on buildings financed by CMHC, but he said all reputable dealer and contractors will handle only the CMHC-approved insulation.

Cubbon's said the important thing to remember about insulation is to keep recessed light fixtures and junction boxes in the wiring free of insulation.

"They're great heat traps," he said. And if covered by a foot or two of insulation — any kind of insulation — can cause a fire.

According to The Star, there is a lack of quality control by some of the 35 manufacturers in Canada and some substandard insulation does get on the market.

However, Fiset said cellulose fibre insulation is safe.

"I put it in my attic and I would put it in my best friend's attic."

Law being 'undermined'

By NORM GIDNEY
Times Staff

The rule of law is everywhere being undermined by trade unions, terrorists, vandals and others who ignore it with impunity, says the English-speaking world's most influential judge.

Political corruption is also eating away at the rule of law and subverting the rights of the individual, Lord Denning, Britain's chief justice of the court of appeal, told faculty and students of the University of Victoria law school.

He was in B.C. for the official opening of Vancouver's new courthouse, and came to Victoria at the invitation of the UVic law faculty. He also has a niece who lives in Oak Bay.

The 80-year-old judge, who has established many important precedents in his 35 years on the bench, told the students they must strive to shore up the law, which is the foundation of civilized society.

"Do you have the same trouble in Canada as we do in England with the trade unions?"

Does Canada have hooligans who break the law, political terrorists who murder and destroy and are immune from prosecution? he asked.

Bureaucrats and politicians are also guilty of sometimes circumventing the rule of law. Corruption and abuse of power remain the central public issues of our time, said Lord Denning.

The most important cases which appear in the courts today relate to the abuse of power, "whether by departments of government or by the trade unions. One of the functions of the law is to curb the use and abuse of power.

"The great evil in our society today is corruption. It's always been with us, but the opportunities are far greater today."

For example, land values may increase tenfold when property is rezoned by a municipal council.

Buildings must be inspected as they are constructed.

"If the contractor wants to put three inches of concrete where there should be six inches, how easy it is tp put a £5 note in the pocket of the inspector to pass the defective work."

There is also corruption on a grander scale, said Lord Denning, mentioning President Nixon's fall from office because of Watergate, the disgrace of a bribe-taking former Japanese prime minister and Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands, mixed up in the Lockheed aircraft influence peddling scandal.

"It doesn't stop within countries. It's international. Such are some of the evils which power has today."

Lord Denning also countered the arguments in some circles that the individual needs the protection of a bill of rights set down on paper, like the Americans and unlike Canada or Britain.

"It's the judges, not a bill of rights or anything of that kind, who have upheld the rights of the individual."

He cited examples of the courts upholding the rights of the little man against the encroachment of government and unions.

One was Freddie Laker's Skytrain service across the north Atlantic. He wanted to put his innovative no-frills flights into the sky but the responsible British cabinet minister refused permission, under pressure from British Airways.

Laker brought his case before Lord Denning, who found that the minister had no right to deny Laker.

"Skytrain got into the air and it's still there. And as you know it's revolutionized air travel. That was the result of the decision of the court of appeal in England."

Another involved the threat by the British postal workers union last year to stop all mail to South Africa for a week to protest apartheid, which was unlawful. A private citizen asked leave from the attorney-general — the chief law officer of the government — to seek an injunction in court to stop the boycott. He refused and it was appealed to Lord Denning's court.

Denning lectured the attorney-general that he had no right to tell the courts which laws should be enforced, and granted the injunction.

"Be you ever so high, the law is above you," he told the attorney-general.

"Fortunately for us the trade union obeyed the injunction. If they hadn't I don't know what we would have done," said Lord Denning.

The House of Lords later overturned his decision, saying the court of appeal should have left it up to the attorney-general whether to allow the injunction to go ahead.

"Say it softly — he was afraid of what the trade unions might do. But we weren't."

He may seem a stern and moralistic figure, but Lord Denning peppered his hour-long address with jokes and laughed with the 300 people present when a group of law students, who are required to study many of the cases he made famous, sung him an impromptu tribute.

To the tune of The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance, they praised him as "the man who saved the meek and the poor — the greatest judge of them all."

GARDENING
Hilda Beastall

Time to show off your garden's best

A large hall filled with the best of locally grown vegetables, fruits and flowers will greet visitors this Friday and Saturday.

The event is the annual fall show of the Victoria Horticultural Society, the place is First United Church Hall, 932 Balmoral Street off Quadra just north of Pandora.

Not only members exhibit in this show. Any gardener who would like to compete is invited to do so. A show schedule may be had from show secretary Shirley McMinn, 3557 Quadra Street. Phone 382-9836.

Deadline for entries by mail or by phone is Tuesday midnight. Rules governing exhibiting are clearly set out in the show schedule.

Garden flowers just coming into bloom for the fall season will be represented with early varieties of chrysanthemums and Michaelmas-daisies (perennial asters), while dahlias, other fall perennials, late blooming annuals, and well berried shrub branches and coloring tree branches will add that soft warmth of color that astonishes easterners who feel that frost is responsible for their foliage colors.

Apartment dwellers, balcony and patio gardeners have a section for flowering and foliage plants grown in pots, ranging from orchid to cactus, including fuchsia, tuberous begonia. African-violet and foliage plants not in bloom.

Roses, as gardeners know, have varieties which give delightful September blooming. Often these have a deeper rich color than the June main crop. These are a real bonus in color and fragrance. The same September bloomers may still be producing buds to open indoors at Christmas or New Year's.

When the tables of fruits and vegetables are reached, it might be as well to have already had the refreshments which are available in the hall throughout the show.

To those who grow them different varieties may be seen whose names should be copied into the ever-present notebook which interested visitors are always cramming with facts about their hobby.

Visitors are reminded that balcony boxes, planters and tubs will produce both vegetables and fruits, on a small scale to be sure, but surely enough to supplement those that must be store-bought.

These displays will serve to remind balcony gardeners (and those who wish they had rented an allotment garden plot in the spring) of the perfection when at least some of their favorite fruits and vegetables can be gathered just minutes before a meal.

It is sometimes in the arrangement and design section that one comes across material not commonly seen. In this show, the theme of the section is "My Garden in Winter", a challenge every gardener faces if interest is to be maintained throughout the year.

One class is designated "Roots: a design including a root or roots of any plant", another "A good pruning" design including bare branches and any other plant material.

To find out what others make of these suggestions, be either an exhibitor or a visitor or both.

Show opens Friday from 2 to 10 p.m., and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Admission is still only 50 cents.

Jobless funds scheme simmers

TORONTO (CP) — The possibility of further reductions in Canada's unemployment insurance program has drawn condemnation from labor and the New Democratic Party and praise from business leaders.

Ed Broadbent, federal NDP leader, said Saturday the Progressive Conservative government's study is "dangerous in its implications."

In a story Saturday, The Star said the Conservative government is reviewing ways of cutting unemployment insurance benefits, particularly to seasonal workers, people who quit their jobs or are fired and those out of work due to sickness or pregnancy.

The newspaper also said the federal government is looking at the possibility of giving unemployed people bare subsistance and is studying whether the earnings of other family members should be taken into consideration in determining the amount.

Broadbent said the emphasis should be on job creation, citing a recent report by the Conference Board in Canada, which indicated that next year only 10,000 new jobs will be created in the country.

"That's not enough for one of our large cities let alone for the country," he said.

"The answer is to start a job creation program to get people off unemployment insurance, not to reduce benefits," Pilkey said.

However, Sam Hughes, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said changes are necessary because his organization has long felt that the present system of unemployment insurance discourages people from working.

Whitecaps fever reigns

VANCOUVER (CP) — They threw confetti and waved banners, sang songs and screamed over and over again what everyone within earshot already knew — the Vancouver Whitecaps are number one.

Children climbed on their fathers' shoulders to get a better look. Teenage girls screamed and enthusiasm ran roughshod over police attempts at crowd control.

And the Whitecaps loved every minute of it as tens of thousands of people jammed downtown streets Sunday to cheer Vancouver's first major professional championship team since the British Columbia Lions won the Grey Cup in 1964.

"I expected a reception, but this is beyond my wildest dreams," said Vancouver native Bob Lenarduzzi after he and his team-mates, swilling beer and champagne in the backs of pickup trucks, had taken more than an hour to inch their way over a three-kilometre parade route.

"Even if you won the (English) Cup final," said goalie Phil Parkes, "there'd be nothing like this."

The Whitecap wave, which started as a ripple six seasons ago when the club joined the league, hit tidal wave proportions with Sunday's welcome.

The hometown enthusiasm supplied what was lacking Saturday when the Whitecaps beat Tampa Bay Rowdies 2-1 before a mostly hostile Soccer Bowl crowd in East Rutherford, N.J., just outside New York.

The crowd, most of them New York Cosmos fans, were still bitter about the Whitecaps win over the Cosmos in the National Conference final a week before. But despite the boos, the Whitecap wave rolled on.

Despite police warnings to go downtown instead, about 1,500 people showed up at the airport. The crowd, ignoring normal airport procedure, pushed past barriers and climbed onto luggage carousels, pressing against the door through which the team was to enter. When defender Buzz Parsons finally came into view with the Soccer Bowl trophy held over his head, the day's chaotic tone was set.

People stood in knots along the 12-km route into the city, waving as the Whitecap bus, escorted by police on motorcycles, sped by with the trophy displayed in its window. Crowd estimates ranged to 60,000.

After the parade, police escorted the team onto a stage at Robson Square. The cheers of the crowd drowned out most of the speech attempts, but it didn't really matter. What Carl Valentine tried to tell them was all they wanted to hear anyway.

"You are the number one fans," he shouted, "and we are the number one team."

Moving quickly on the heels of Friday's Bank of Canada lending rate increase, Canadian chartered banks today set prime lending rates at an all-time high of 13 per cent.

The Royal Bank of Canada was first to make the jump from 12½ per cent, effective immediately and the other banks were quick to follow suit.

The chartered banks also announced increases of 0.25 per cent to 10.25 per cent on true non-chequing savings accounts retroactive to Sept. 1. The banks will add another 0.5 per cent to 10.50 per cent Oct. 1.

Prime is the rate which banks charge their blue-chip corporate borrowers. It is normally kept three-quarters of one per cent above the central bank rate, which went up to 12.25 per cent at the start of business today.

The U.S. base lending rate moved up to to 13 per cent from 12¾ per cent, effective immediately. The rate is the one at which the bank lends U.S. funds in Canada.

The Royal Bank of Canada also announced an increase in mortgage rates, up one-half of one per cent from an increase last Friday.

Effective immediately, three-and-five-year regular mortgages go up to 12¾ per cent for conventional and to 12½ per cent for NHA, while closed mortgages go up to 13¼ per cent for conventional and 13 per cent for NHA.

Closed mortgages are those which allow the borrower to speed up payments.

The president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce said today long-term borrowers will be hardest hit by the current round of interest rate rises.

Sam Hughes said the short-term borrower has a better break because his borrowing rate will come down when interest rates do.

"It's an advantage he's got over the long-term borrower," Hughes said. "A lot of people are obviously looking at the short-term market."

Interest rates will keep rising until the United States begins controlling inflation, he added.

The executive vice-president of the Conseil du Patronat du Quebec, the province's federation of employer associations, echoed Hughes' last remark when he said higher interest rates can always be passed on to the consumer.

"It is not one-half of one per cent which will keep down investment," Dufour said. "There is a certain

Wave of strikes hits U.K. industry

LONDON (Reuter) — A wave of strikes shut down much of British industry today, forced the closure of Manchester Airport and paralysed a key Royal Navy base.

More than a million engineering workers staged a work stoppage over a pay claim, closing industrial plants throughout the country in their second official two-day stoppage this month.

Manchester Airport, the most important in industrial northwest England, was forced to close because of a strike by 34 fire officers in support of a pay claim.

Viets breaking refugee vow?

HONG KONG (UPI) — A boat crammed with 651 refugees arrived in Hong Kong tonight, providing dramatic evidence that Hanoi has failed to halt the exodus of the boat people.

The latest arrivals first touched land in the nearby Portugese territory of Macao, but were towed back to sea by marine police who pointed them in the direction of Hong Kong.

Authorities in the British crown colony said the refugees would not be allowed to land until an investigation into the circumstances of their leaving Vietnam was made.

Earlier today, a 60-foot motorized junk carrying 289 Vietnamese arrived in Hong Kong harbor, bringing the day's refugee total to 940.

Despite Hanoi's pledge at the Geneva conference in July that it would "turn off the tap" on the exodus of refugees, an increasing number of Vietnamese have been rescued at sea or arrived safely in Southeast Asian ports in recent days.

In Hong Kong alone, 2,052 refugees have arrived this month — 1,699 of them in the past week. Officials said more than 67,000 Vietnamese now were being cared for in Hong Kong's crowded refugees camps.

Muzorewa, Mugabe face-to-face in U.K.

LONDON (AP) — British Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington formally opened the Zimbabwe Rhodesia peace talks today, insisting the warring parties reach agreement on a new constitution for the African territory before deciding who will control the army.

The talks opened on schedule despite last-minute objections by one faction of the black nationalist guerrillas to being seated opposite the war-torn territory's first black prime minister, Bishop Abel Muzorewa, and leaders from the previous white minority government.

After the talks began behind closed doors at Lancaster House; a British foreign office spokesman said the opposing delegates sat down as Britain arranged — facing each other.

"The constitution is the fundamental problem to which we must address ourselves," Carrington told the two sides, whose main preoccupation is who will control the national security forces after any internationally acceptable agreement.

Carrington said progress toward agreement on political issues would mean "progress toward removing the causes of the war."

Just before the talks began, guerrilla chief Robert Mugabe urged Britain to set up a transition administration in Zimbabwe Rhodesia giving a "predominant" role to the guerrillas, but including Britain and representatives of Muzorewa's black-dominated administration.

The Mozambique-based forced of Mugabe and the Zambia-based forces of Joshua Nkomo have been fighting seven years for control of the territory. The two men are co-leaders of the Patriotic Front guerrilla alliance.

Mugabe told a BBC interviewer that the communist-armed guerrilla forces should form the "core" of the new army. But unlike many of his top aides and Nkomo himself who often demand the total dismantling of the country's white-led army and air force, Mugabe said: "We do agree to include desirable elements from the other side."

He would not elaborate. The current Rhodesian regular army is 80 per cent black and regarded as one of the most efficient in Africa.

Mugabe described Muzorewa, whom he regards simply as a black front with power retained by whites, as on the "verge of defeat."

U.S. envoy to Canada named

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Carter today announced he has nominated Kenneth Curtis, former governor of Maine, to be the new U.S. ambassador to Canada.

Curtis, whose nomination must be approved by the Senate, would replace Ambassador Thomas Enders.

The Senate foreign relations committee is expected to arrange a confirmation hearing soon. Enders is likely to be reassigned to a European post.

Curtis, 48, a Carter confidant who returned to private law practice in 1978 after a stormy year as chairman of the Democratic party, said earlier this year that if he was appointed ambassador to Canada, he expected to try to learn French.

Sasquatch in Asia?

MOSCOW (AP) — Amateur mountain climbers in Soviet Central Asia discovered the clear footprints of what they said are giant human-like creatures similar to the Sasquatch, the fabled creature of the North American west coast, a Soviet youth newspaper reports.

A special correspondent for the newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda, accompanying an expedition during August in the Gissar Mountains in Tadzhikistan province, wrote two weekend articles in which he described finding the prints of two barefoot creatures near the group's campsite.

"I clearly saw four traces of bare feet," reporter Igor Burtsev said. "Two were heading in the direction of the camp, two away from it. The length of the pace was 120 centimetres, twice as long as the average human pace."

Six days later, Burtsev reported, the expedition found "a huge, clear trace. . . . It would have been impossible for a man to have left it. The length of the foot was 34 centimetres, the width 16 centimetres across the toes."

After a plaster cast was made of the imprint, analysis showed that "it resembles American traces of huminoids, although there are some small details that are different," Burtsev wrote.

Old Age Security—The Government of Canada pays a monthly pension to all persons aged 65 and over who have lived in Canada for the 10 years immediately before their application for benefits, or meet other long-term residence requirements; The monthly payment is adjusted quarterly, according to changes in Canada's cost of living index.

Misinformation in government booklet

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

A 56-year-old immigrant from England who says he was brought to Canada under false pretences wants the government to compensate him for the $8,000 the move has cost him.

Robin Trevallion of 1-1334 Pandora said in an interview the Canadian immigration office in London misinformed him about his right to claim a pension when he turns 65.

He said he came to Canada in August, 1978, with the understanding he'd be eligible for a Canada pension after 10 years in this country.

The information was contained in a 159-page booklet, Introduction to Canada, which he received following his final interview with immigration officials in December, 1977.

He had been told everything he needed to know about going to Canada was contained in the booklet.

However, he said, a few months after arriving in Victoria, where he works as a machinist with Scott's Plastics, he learned the Old Age Security residency requirements had been amended on July 1, 1977.

The amendment, which was not incorporated into the booklet, requires immigrants to have lived in Canada 40 years before they are entitled to the full pension. It sets out a pension formula based on one-fortieth part for each year an immigrant resides in Canada to a minimum of 10 years.

Trevallion discovered he would be entitled to only one quarter of the pension, not the full amount as he had expected.

"If I had known that, I would never have bothered emigrating," he said.

As it was, he and his wife sold their house in Cornwall, auctioned off most of their belongings and moved to Victoria with the hopes of spending the rest of their days here.

He said he spent four years hunting for a job in Canada before finally landing one. The guarantee of employment is a necessary ingredient in applying for immigration.

"It's pointless now to remain," he said. "We could never live on the pension. The only sensible thing to do is return to Britain."

He said it cost him about $6,000 to emigrate here, taking into account solicitor's fees in selling their home, the auction agent's fee, the cost of medical examinations, packing expenses and air fares.

Another $2,000 will be spent in resettling in England, he said.

"We wouldn't have got into this mess if the government agency hadn't misinformed us. We were brought here under a false pretence.

"I think the least the government can do is compensate us for our costs."

Trevallion said he sought help from Victoria MP Allan McKinnon last fall.

He said McKinnon applied on his behalf to Monique Begin, then minister of health, for an exemption from the residency requirement.

Begin turned down the request saying nothing could be done; the law was the law and she had no authority to change it.

In a letter to Trevallion in December she said it was "unfortunate" he had received a pamphlet that didn't reflect the changes in the law. She said a new edition containing the amendment was being printed and would soon be available.

"He (McKinnon) said at the time he thought we were being ill-used by the government," Travallion said.

After the May federal election Travallion approached McKinnon again, hoping the new government would redress the situation.

But McKinnon, responding in a letter Aug. 23, stated that "while Health Minister David Crombie gave the most sympathetic consideration possible . . . the fact is we can't change the law and must adhere to the regulation. The minister has no power to make any exceptions."

Trevallion said he can accept the law but not the government's neglect in advising immigrants of the changes made to it.

He said he noticed copies of the same edition of the Introduction to Canada booklet he was given in London are being handed out by the immigration office in Victoria.

The Times learned the same is true at immigration offices at White Rock and the Vancouver International Airport.

An immigration spokesman at the airport said a large shipment of the booklets was sent from regional headquarters in May with instructions to hand them out to every immigrant and refugee arriving at Vancouver.

He said he knew the booklet was outdated — it was printed in 1976 — but didn't realize the section on residency requirements for pensions was erroneous.

He said he wasn't aware of the changes made to the regulations 26 months ago.

"Gee, thanks for telling us," he said.

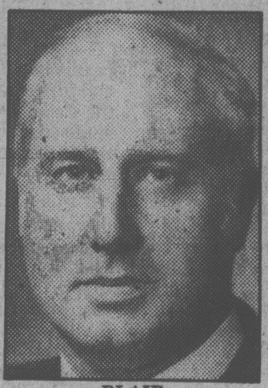
Tourist grant balloon draws Esquimalt fire

An Esquimalt alderman reacted angrily today to a report that municipalities will be asked for significantly larger grants for tourist promotion work.

Victoria Visitors Information Centre president Ed Higgin said Saturday municipalities will be asked to match private enterprise, dollar for dollar.

Ald. Colin Blair, Esquimalt council's representative to the Victoria Information Centre, said Higgin should be reminded that the municipalities don't have a money tree.

"We have no funds other than what's raised from the taxpayer," said Blair. "Therefore, what Mr. Higgin is saying is that a person living in Esquimalt, possibly on a fixed pension, should be asked to subsidize multinational corporate giants such as Canadian Pacific, who are big in the Victoria tourist industry."



BLAIR
. . . taxes lining pockets?

He suggested that municipalities should consider withdrawing their representatives to the centre's board of directors, as the proposal to ask the municipalities for more money had not been discussed by the board.

Pointing to Victoria's record tourism income this year, Blair said little of the bonanza ended up in Esquimalt's municipal coffers.

"It should be remembered that municipal taxes were established to provide such basic necessities as sewers, roads and police and fire services."

He said many of his constituents have suggested it was time for the municipality "to start looking at cutting some of these frills and getting back to the basics."

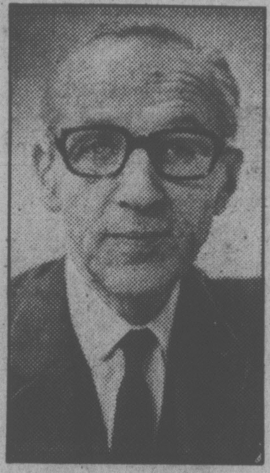
Blair said the centre has gone far beyond being simply a visitors information centre. "It is now a tourism promotion agency, spending a considerable portion of its budget on advertising in American magazines," he said.

"I don't believe the municipal taxpayer should be required to pay for advertising to bring visitors here to line the pockets of those involved in the tourist trade."

Blair also wondered what happened to the board's democratic principles.

"There's a board of directors, which includes municipal representatives," he said. "The proposal to hit municipalities for more funds has not been put before this board and would appear to be a one-man decision.

"If this is the way it's going to be run, I would suggest that municipalities should consider withdrawing their representatives."



WARD-HARRIS
. . . "objective look"

Book aid survey

E.D. Ward-Harris of Saanich has been appointed to undertake a special study into the financial needs of B.C. book publishers.

A spokesman in Provincial Secretary Hugh Curtis' office said today Ward-Harris will study the problems of the industry and make recommendations to the minister on what kind of provincial aid the publishers need.

"The minister knows Ward-Harris is interested in the publishing business and he feels he can take an objective look at it because he's not involved himself," he said.

Employees at BCBC vote strike

Employees of the B.C. Buildings Crown corporation voted 96.6 per cent to strike in a vote taken last week the B.C. Government Employees Union announced today.

Union general secretary John Fryer said the government-supervised vote among the 1,150 staffers puts the union in a legal position to serve 72 hours strike notice.

He gave no indication if or when that notice would be served, however, saying only that the mandate is a strong one and the union is "developing a strategy to put it to work."

BCGEU Victoria staff representative said there are numerous issues that were failed to be resolved, not the least of which is wages.

There are between 200 and 250 BCBC employees in the Victoria area.

Voting took place all last week in BCBC offices throughout the province. Balloting was supervised by the Labor Relations Board.

Meanwhile a strike vote is being conducted this week among the employees of the B.C. Systems Corporation.

Talks between the corporation and the BCGEU broke off Friday.

The BCGEU wants three-year contracts increasing at eight per cent a year for both BCBC and B.C. sytems employees.

Management in B.C. systems would not budge from its initial offer of a 4½ per cent increase in each year of a two-year contract.

And BCBC management's last offer before talks broke off was six per cent, six per cent and three per cent.

Jewelry store robbed

Thieves smashed both front windows of Rose's Jewellers, 1317 Douglas, early today and made off with several wrist watches, pocket watches and charms.

Saanich police reported juveniles broke into the A&M Grocery, 77 Sims, about 8:30 Sunday night. Cigarettes and chocolate bars were recovered near the scene and anyone with information is asked to call police.

Saturday night, vandals did $900 worth of damage to Colquitz School. The building and a canoe in an inside compound were damaged.

There were also break-ins Sunday night at the Victoria West Community Centre and Turner's Coffee Shop, 1909 Birch.

A juvenile has been charged in connection with the community centre break-in.

Two juveniles have also been charged by Sidney RCMP with breaking and entering and wilful damage. Windows were shot out in a house and a hydro property at Durrance Lake. Central Saanich RCMP have charged the same two with auto theft.

Police stroll city pubs

A new Victoria police program aimed at discouraging drunkenness and serving of liquor to minors in city pubs is working well, Chief Jack Gregory said today.

Regular patrolmen are taking swings through drinking establishments and reporting what they see — good or bad — to the Liquor Licensing Office.

Gregory said the program stems from concern about an increase in vandalism, drunken driving, and assaults.

"It's a method of crime prevention. We took a look at the problems and decided that liquor was at the root of them," said Gregory.

The officers are watching to see that minors are not served and that intoxicated people are refused further drinks.

They contact the manager about shortcomings and submit a report to the licensing branch.

Gregory hopes the branch will take appropriate action stemming from the reports.

He said the Victoria branch of the B.C. Hotelman's Association has welcomed the new program.

Morton retiring

Ken Morton is retiring as B.C.'s chief electoral officer.

Morton, 63, who has supervised every provincial election since 1968, was injured in a fall this summer and has been making a slow recovery. A cabinet order released today terminates his appointment as of Oct. 1.

There is no urgent need to find a replacement as another provincial election is not likely for at least two years.

And this is the noblest bird of all?

THE BALD EAGLE IS ON the threatened species list in the United States, but up here in the Campbell River country, Old Whitey with the snow-capped dome, the fearsome talons and the formidable beak is one of life's commonplaces.

So familiar are we with the spectacle of an eagle or a family of eagles lording it on beach rocks or in a spruce top that we spare them scarce a second glance.

Aloft, riding the air currents effortlessly on wide bar wings, there's no bird so noble. But when the bald eagle conducts its affairs at ground level, it frequently borders on the ridiculous. The sight of a hulking great bird clumsily stalking the tide's edge in search of such edibles as may have been uncovered is less than inspiring.

The best eagle story I know involves one of the nature interpreters down at Miracle Beach Park, and a tourist audience which had gathered in the tree-ringed park amphitheatre to hear a wildlife talk.

"I'd been holding forth on eagles," says the girl naturalist, "when all of a sudden there was this terrific crack overhead, and a dead limb tumbled down.

"Then the eagle that had been sitting asleep on the branch when it broke dropped in on us. It had a wing-spread of almost seven feet, and it put on the brakes right over our heads."

The nature lecturer couldn't have asked for a more striking illustration.

Tourists! We have completed another summer of them in full swarm, their campers, motor-homes and trailers jamming the highway and filling the campgrounds.

Any morning that we cared to look out from our seaward-fronting windows, we saw tourists with rumps in air, excavating for clams in all the wrong places. They kept the cash registers jingling in Campbell River stores, and haunted the various little marinas spotted along the waterfront.

We'd come in from fishing the other evening with a handsome coho salmon in the baby-bath which does duty for a fish-box.

"Oh!" she said. "So that's what a fish looks like!"

The artless remark left us dazed for a moment. Then Win ran off a hasty mental review of deep-inland climes where fish might conceivably be rare.

"Are you from Alberta?" Win asked.

The tourist gave a quick affirmative nod.

"How did you know?" she asked.

She touched the coho gingerly, then turned away, leaving us with an unanswered question.

Was she indulging in a bit of leg-pulling, or had she actually never seen a fish before?

Speaking of Alberta, we have a daughter in that interior province who did most of her growing up here on the British Columbia coast. Sometimes she yearns for the boats and salt water which were so much a part of her childhood that she took both for granted.

A while ago, prodded by nostalgia, she ran off a paper of verses, which with her permission, I pass on to you. At the risk of seeming an over-proud dad, I think they catch the spirit of the exile better than most.

A WATER-COOLED engine probably would have worked fine in Saturday's rain but this particular model is air-cooled. It's a 1914 Franklin, one of 100 vintage cars that took part in the annual Malahat Challenge for pre-1916 automobiles. Some 350 participants from Canada and the U.S. were involved in the rally which started in Nanaimo and ended at the Legislative Buildings. Murray Gammon of Victoria, one of the rally organizers, said all entries completed the test. A corn roast and visit to the Classic Car Museum Sunday completed the weekend. Admiring the Franklin is 11-year-old Shelley Hulko, 4924 Lemaire, whose family owns a 1932 model A Ford roadster, too recent a model to officially take part. (Alex Barta photo).

Equity monies on an upswing

TORONTO (CP) — An economic conference was told today that a substantial turnaround has occurred in the level of new equity financing in Canada for the first time in a decade.

In a speech to the Financial Times conference, Andrew Kniewasser, president of the Investment Dealers Association of Canada, also said there is a national consensus that the key to a better economic performance in the 1980s is through an improved allocation of capital to productive purposes.

He said in the first six months of this year, securities markets raised about $858 million in new, permanent equity financing for non-financial corporations.

"This is seven per cent of total financing during the period as compared with two per cent in 1977, and I expect this improved performance to continue throughout the balance of 1979."

Kniewasser also reported that revised forecasts indicate that Canada's capital requirements for the period of 1979 to 1990 will amount to $1.4 trillion. About $406 billion of this, or 28 per cent, would be invested in energy-related projects.

Scheckter clinches world title

Times News Services

The 28-year-old Scheckter and Villeneuve led the Ferrari team to a 1-2 triumph on its homeground at the Monza Autodrome before a partisan crowd of 110,000.

Swiss veteran Clay Regazzoni was third.

It was Scheckter's third Grand Prix win of the season and 10th of his career.

The South African covered the total 50 laps in one hour, 22 minutes, 00.22 seconds for an average speed of 212.18 kilometres an hour (131.84 miles an hour).

Scheckter appeared a certain winner of both the race and world title after France's Jacques Laffite halted his Ligier at the pits in the 42nd lap and withdrew because of engine trouble and brake failure.

Villeneuve climbed to second place in the standings with 38 points, but was unable to threaten Scheckter's 51 points in the two remaining world races — the Grand Prix of Canada in Montreal on Sept. 30 and the United States East at Watkins Glen, N.Y.

WOLVERHAMPTON, England (Reuter) — Scottish international striker Andy Gray became Britain's most expensive soccer player when he signed with Wolverhampton Wanderers from Aston Villa for $3.3 million.

The Gray deal eclipsed the shortlived previous British record transfer fee set recently when Wolverhampton sold midfielder Steve Daly to Manchester City in a deal for about $3 million.
